CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1966.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

This Volume deals with the population living in private households and contains classifications by housing accommodation and type of household, derived from the 1966 Census of Population. The Census was taken on the night of 17 April, 1966, in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1966 (S I No 40 of 1966), made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by sub-section (1) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S I No 142 of 1949)

The following particulars were collected in respect of each individual (i) Name, (ii) relationship to head of household, (iii) sex, (iv) date of birth and (v) marital condition, and for persons aged 14 years or over, (vi) principal occupation, (vii) employment status (i.e. whether employer, employee etc.) (viii) name of employer and employer's business, (ix) area and rateable valuation of agricultural land held, (x) age at which full-time education ended and types of school, college, etc. attended (for persons who had ceased their full time education). In addition, the head of each private household was asked to state the number of rooms in the dwelling occupied by the household.

The full publication programme of the 1966 Census comprises the following reports

Volume I	– Population of District Electoral Divisions, towns and larger units of area (Already published)
Volume II	– Ages and Conjugal Conditions (Already published)
Volume III	– Industries (Already published)
Volume IV	– Occupations (Already published)
Volume V	– Occupations and industries classified by ages and conjugal conditions (Already published)
Volume VI	– Housing and households (The present volume)
Volume VII	– Education

Information on Housing and Household size collected at the 1961 Census of Population has been published in Volume VI of the Reports on that Census. An analysis of Household types compiled on an experimental basis was published in the Irish Statistical Bulletin, September 1966. These tables have been reproduced as an Appendix to the present Volume. Questions in respect of water supply, sanitary facilities, electricity supply and age of dwelling, asked at the 1961 Census inquiry were not repeated in 1966. Consequently, classifications of dwellings based on these characteristics are not available for 1966.

DEFINITIONS

For Census of Population purposes the total population is divided into two groups, namely, those persons living in private households and those not living in private households, persons in the various types of institution constituting the majority of the latter group. A private household is defined as a group of persons jointly occupying the whole or part of a private dwelling house or flat and sharing the principal meals and making common provision for basic living needs. A person who lives alone in a private dwelling house or flat or who occupies part of a house or flat but does not have any meals with the other occupants, is also regarded as constituting a private household. The principal categories of non private households are, boarding house, hotel, guest house, barrack, hospital, nursing home, boarding school, religious institution, welfare institution, prison, ship, caravan or other mobile dwelling.

However, managers of hotels, principals of boarding schools, persons in charge of various other types of institution and members of staff who, with their families, occupy flats on the premises are classified as private households

In distributing the household schedule (Form A), the Enumerators are instructed to ensure that a separate form be completed in respect of each private household, as defined above. The room or set of rooms occupied by a private household are defined as a private dwelling. At the 1966 Census inquiry the head of each private household was asked to state the number of rooms occupied by the household. The various classifications involving dwellings contained in this volume are obtained by relating the numbers of persons in private households and the numbers of rooms occupied by them. Thus the classifications relate to occupied dwellings only. Statistics of unoccupied dwellings are not compiled on account of the difficulty of determining, in many cases, whether unoccupied dwellings should be regarded as habitable or not. The number of rooms in a private dwelling is the total number occupied and used by the household, including kitchen, but excluding scullery, pantry, landing, hallway, bathroom, toilet or any consulting room, office or shop.

A farm dwelling is defined as one in which one or more persons, usually resident in the household, are rated occupiers of agricultural holdings, i.e. holdings of a quarter of an acre or over used for agricultural purposes.

CLASSIFICATION OF HOUSEHOLDS BY TYPE

A number of possible methods exist for the classification of private households, some of which are both detailed and complex. For Census of Population purposes, however, it was necessary to adopt a classification which was simple enough to apply to all private households in the State and sufficiently short to facilitate machine processing while giving the most useful and informative results possible. The classification chosen is an extension of that recommended by the Conference of European Statisticians in their "European Programme for National Population Censuses". It was used for the first time on an experimental basis in connection with the 1961 Census of Population.

The basis of the system of classification is the family unit which is defined as one of the following -

- (i) A man and his wife
- (ii) A man and his wife together with one or more single children (of any age)
- (iii) One parent together with one or more single children (of any age)

Households containing family units of these types were further classified into those with and those without other persons. Households with more than one family unit were separately distinguished. For households with no family unit those consisting of one person were separately distinguished.

Private households were therefore assigned to one of the following ten types

Households consisting of

- | | | |
|----|---|-----------|
| 1 | One person only | |
| 2 | Man and wife | } with no |
| 3 | Man, wife and one or more single children (of any age) | |
| 4 | One parent and one or more single children (of any age) | } persons |
| 5 | Man and wife | |
| 6 | Man, wife and one or more single children (of any age) | } other |
| 7 | One parent and one or more single children (of any age) | |
| 8 | Two family units, as defined, with or without other persons | |
| 9 | Three or more family units, as defined, with or without other persons | |
| 10 | Two or more persons, whether related or not, but not including a family unit as defined | |

It should be particularly noted that the age of children is not taken into account in defining the household type. Thus a household comprising a man aged 30, his wife aged 27 and their child aged 2 years is assigned to Type 3, and so also is a household comprising a man aged 60, his wife aged 57 and their son aged 32, provided the son is unmarried.

In some of the tables households are shown classified by various characteristics of the head of the household, such as age, conjugal condition and socio-economic group. No instructions are, however, given on the Census form as to which person in a household should be regarded as the head. The person completing the form is simply asked to enter the particulars in respect of the head of the household on the first line. Thus it is deliberately left to the individuals concerned to indicate which member of the household is regarded as the head. On this basis in a small proportion of households consisting of husband and wife only, the wife has been classified as head. Similarly in a small proportion of households consisting of a husband, wife and son or daughter, the son or daughter has been classified as head.

AGGREGATE TOWN AND RURAL AREAS

In studying housing accommodation a separate examination of town and rural areas is particularly important and in many of the tables in this volume figures are given separately for aggregate town area and aggregate rural area within each county and province. The definition of the Aggregate Town Area is the same as that used in Volume I of the 1966 Census and covers all population clusters of fifteen hundred persons or over. More precisely, the Aggregate Town Area of the State comprises the following -

- The four County Boroughs and their suburbs (if any)
- The Borough of Dun Laoghaire and its suburbs
- The six Municipal Boroughs and their suburbs (if any)
- Forty-eight Urban Districts and their environs (if any)
- Twenty-one Towns under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act 1854 and their environs (if any) having populations, when their environs are included, of fifteen hundred or more persons
- Twenty four Towns without legally defined boundaries having populations of fifteen hundred persons or over

The Aggregate Rural Areas comprise all other areas including Towns of under fifteen hundred total population. In particular one Urban District and eight Towns under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854 which even when the populations of their environs are added, do not reach fifteen hundred persons, fall within the Aggregate Rural Area as defined. It should be noted that, as the boundaries of towns may alter from one census to the next and as the population of towns may pass above or below the 1,500 limit, the precise areas comprising the Aggregate Town Areas and Aggregate Rural Areas may differ between successive censuses. The changes which occurred between the 1961 and 1966 Censuses are discussed in the Commentary of Volume I of the 1966 Census.

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS

The Census figures relate to the de facto population, that is to say the size and composition recorded for each household relate to all the persons present in the household on the night of 17 April, 1966, together with any persons who arrived on the morning of Monday, 18 April, 1966, not having been enumerated elsewhere. Any visitors staying in a household on Census night have been included as part of that household while household members temporarily absent on Census night have not been included as part of the household.

CLASSIFICATION BY SOCIO-ECONOMIC GROUP

The basis of this classification is explained in Volume IV (Occupations) which also contains, in Appendix D a detailed list showing the allocation of occupations to socio-economic groups.

COMMENTARY

The number of persons in private households in 1966 was 2,754,450, representing 95.5 percent of the total population. There were, in all, 687,304 private households occupying some 3,080,000 rooms. The average number of persons per household was 4.01 and the average number of rooms occupied per household was 4.48.

Comparative figures for persons in private households and persons not in private households derived from the 1926, 1936, 1946 and 1961 Censuses are shown in Table I. The 1966 percentage of persons in private households was the highest recorded, comparing with 95.3 percent in 1961 and with the lowest figure of 93.2 percent in 1946. Between 1961 and 1966 the number of persons in private households increased by 68,149, while there was a slight fall of 2,488 in the number of persons not in private households.

While the number of persons in private households increased by 2.5 percent between 1961 and 1966, the actual number of private households rose by 1.6 percent. The average number of persons per household rose from 3.97 in 1961 to 4.01 in 1966. This was the first increase recorded, the average for earlier years having declined steadily, from 4.48 in 1926 to 4.31 in 1936 and 4.16 in 1946.

Average number of rooms occupied per private household	3.77	3.95	4.12	4.42	4.48

* In obtaining these figures, the average number of rooms per dwelling in the case of dwellings where the number of rooms was not stated was assumed to equal the average for the dwellings where the number of rooms was stated.

The total number of rooms occupied by private households rose steadily over the entire period 1926 to 1966 at a faster rate than the number of households and the average number of rooms per private household showed a steady improvement

In TABLES 1, 2 and 3 of this volume corresponding information is given on private households and rooms occupied in respect of the Aggregate Town Area and Aggregate Rural Area of each County. The average number of persons per household in Aggregate Town Areas which had tended to decline between 1926 and 1961, increased between 1961 and 1966 in all Counties except Laoighis Longford Clare Mayo Roscommon Sligo Cavan and Donegal. In the case of the Aggregate Rural Areas also, a sizeable number of Counties particularly those in Leinster, showed an increase in the average number of persons per household between 1961 and 1966, contrasting sharply with the trends over the period 1926 to 1961

The principal table in this volume TABLE 10 shows private households in each Province County and County Borough and in the Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas of each county in 1966 classified by number of persons in household and number of rooms occupied. From this table the other tables showing classifications by housing density may be derived. In Table III which follows, the distribution of the population living in private households according to housing density is compared for the 1926 1936, 1946 1961 and 1966 Censuses

TABLE III PERSONS IN PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED ACCORDING TO HOUSING DENSITY, 1926 TO 1966

This table shows clearly the improvement in housing conditions over the period, as measured by the proportion of the population living under various housing density conditions. Thus whereas in 1926, 37.1 percent of the population lived in accommodation with two or more persons per room, by 1946 this figure had declined to 25.0 percent and, by 1966 to 16.9 percent. The proportion of the population living in a housing density of less than one person per room rose from 20.8 percent in 1926 to 28.2 percent in 1946 and 35.2 percent in 1966. It will be noted that the number of persons who could not be classified by housing density showed a very marked decline in 1966, by comparison with earlier censuses. This was mainly due to a considerable reduction, in 1966, in the number of cases where householders failed to state the number of rooms occupied.

Table IV which follows, shows the number of persons living in households of each size at the 1926, 1936, 1946, 1961 and 1966 Censuses

TABLE IV PERSONS IN PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED BY HOUSEHOLD SIZE, 1926 TO 1966

TOTAL	2,790,581	2,791,047	2,755,490	2,686,301	2,754,450

With the increase of 2.5 percent between 1961 and 1966 in the number of persons in private households some increase occurred in the numbers of persons in each household size categories except those of 3 and 4 persons. The increases were substantial in the larger sized households. Thus the number of persons in households of ten persons rose by 7 percent, the number in households of eleven persons by 12 percent and the number in households of twelve or more persons by 32 percent. The increase between 1961 and 1966 in the number living in households of twelve or more persons is remarkable in view of the fact that little change had occurred in the figure over the entire period 1926 to 1961. Presumably the increase between 1961 and 1966 in the numbers in such households as well as in the larger households generally, is connected with the relatively low rate of net emigration from the State during the period, since it is to be expected that large households are to a greater extent affected by emigration than are small households. The steady increase over the entire period 1926 to 1966 in the numbers in one and two-person households will be noted.

As described in the Explanatory Notes private households were classified by family composition according to ten types at the 1961 and 1966 Censuses of Population. The results obtained are compared in Table V.

TABLE V PRIVATE HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED BY TYPE IN 1961 AND 1966 AND PERCENTAGE CHANGE IN EACH CATEGORY

In 1966, households consisting of husband and wife only or husband, wife and single children (of any age) without other persons, numbered 329,044 or 48 percent of the total. Households consisting of husband and wife with other persons or husband, wife and children with other persons numbered 88,493 or 13 percent of the total. Households comprising one parent and children, with or without other persons numbered 87,660 or 13 percent of the total. Households containing two distinct family units numbered 24,134 less than 4 percent of the total, while households containing three or more family units numbered only 448. Households not containing a family unit, more than one half of which were one person households, represented about 23 percent of the total.

The slight overall increase in the number of private households of 1.6 percent between 1961 and 1966 conceals some fairly substantial changes in household composition. Thus households consisting of husband and wife increased in number by 6 percent while households consisting of husband, wife and children increased in number by 7 percent. On the other hand, households comprising one parent and children decreased in number by 8 percent. Households containing two family units increased in number by 10 percent while the number of three-family households in 1966, although small, represented an increase of 57 percent over the corresponding 1961 figures.

TABLES 15 to 23 of this volume show classifications of households by type and by such factors as age, conjugal condition and socio-economic group of the head of the household as well as by rateable valuation of agricultural land held by the household, rooms occupied and district of residence. In Table VI the distribution of households by type in Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas (see definitions) are compared.

As may be seen from this table the principal difference between the Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas as regards distribution by type of household is in respect of the man, wife and children group. Such households formed 44 percent of the total in the Aggregate Town Areas compared with only 34 percent of the total in Aggregate Rural Areas. One person households, households comprising one parent and children only and households not containing a family unit were all relatively more common in the rural areas.

In TABLE 17, private households are shown, classified by type, number of persons, sex and age group of head. The "headship" rates, that is the percentage of persons in each sex and age group who were heads of households, are shown in Table VII. The number of elderly persons, both male and female, living alone is fairly substantial and all such persons, of course, are classified as heads of households. The effect of excluding such persons in the calculation of headship rates is shown in Table VII, and it will be seen that particularly in the case of females, their exclusion considerably reduces the headship rates.

TABLE VII PERCENTAGE OF MALES AND FEMALES IN EACH AGE GROUP WHO ARE HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS (a) INCLUDING AND (b) EXCLUDING ONE PERSON HOUSEHOLDS

Age group	(a) All households	(b) Excluding one- person households
	%	%
Males
15-24 years	3.7	3.2
25-44 years	57.3	55.9
45-64 years	81.1	79.6
65 years and over	74.2	71.4
Females
15-24 years	1.9	1.3
25-44 years	5.0	3.7
45-64 years	20.4	15.9
65 years and over	37.3	28.9

Excluding those living alone, only 3.2 percent of the males in the 15-24 year age group were heads of households, this percentage rising to almost 80 in the 45-64 year age group. Only 3.7 percent of the females in the 25-44 year age group were heads of households, this figure rising to 28.9 percent for females aged 65 years or over.

Table VIII shows headship rates on the same basis as in the foregoing table in respect of conjugal condition groups.

TABLE VIII - PERCENTAGE OF SINGLE, MARRIED AND WIDOWED MALES AND FEMALES WHO ARE HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS (a) INCLUDING AND (b) EXCLUDING ONE-PERSON HOUSEHOLDS

	(a) All households	(b) Excluding one- person households
	%	%
Males
Single	18.4	11.4
Married	89.6	89.5
Widowed	69.5	63.5
Females
Single	11.8	6.3
Married	3.4	3.0
Widowed	66.0	60.5

It will be seen that 90 percent of married males are heads of households. The effect of excluding one-person households is to reduce the headship rates for single persons very considerably and also to reduce, to some extent, the rates for widowed persons while leaving the figures for married persons virtually unchanged.

In Table IX the composition of households in each socio-economic group is examined, the percentages being derived from TABLE 19 of this volume. For convenience the ten household types have been combined into four groups.

It will be noted that very considerable differences exist between the households in the various socio-economic groups as regards their classification by type. Thus, in the Salaried employee group, 86 percent of the households were composed of Man and wife type with or without other persons, whereas in the Lower professional group only 54 percent of the households were in this category. Households of the One parent and children type were relatively most common in the Semi-skilled manual workers and in the Farmers and farmers' relatives groups. One-person households were most common in the Lower professional group.

From TABLE 22 of this volume, in which households are classified by type, number of persons and number of rooms occupied, an indication can be obtained of the housing conditions, as measured by housing density, in each type of household category. Table X based on this table shows the percentage distribution according to housing density in respect of each type of household.

TABLE X DISTRIBUTION OF PERSONS IN EACH TYPE OF HOUSEHOLD ACCORDING TO HOUSING DENSITY

TOTAL	2,754,450	35.2	32.1	15.6	5.9	7.5	3.4	0.3	100-

It will be seen that very considerable differences existed as regards the density of housing of the different household types. Thus, in the case of households consisting of a man, wife and children with or without other persons, about 20 percent of the persons lived under conditions of two or more persons per room. The corresponding figures for persons in two-family households was 28 percent and for persons in three family households the figure was 63 percent. On the other hand, in the case of persons in households of the type man and wife only or man, wife and other persons, only small proportions had a housing density of two or more persons per room.

Table XI shows the numbers of persons classified by broad age groups and numbers gainfully occupied in the various household type categories

Out of a total of 830 915 children under 14 years in private households 733 500 or 88.3 percent were in single family unit households with both a man and wife while 45,691 or 5.5 percent were in corresponding households in which one parent only was present 48 420 or 5.8 percent were in multiple family unit type households and the remainder (3,304 or 0.4 percent) were in private households not containing a family unit

Of the total of 323,007 persons aged 65 years or over, 26,366 or 8 percent were in institutions etc while 35,024 or 11 percent were living alone There were 214,531 persons aged 65 years or over, or 66 percent of the total, living in households containing family units

Gainfully occupied persons represented 63 percent of the total in one person households while in the case of persons in non-family households the percentage gainfully occupied was also 63 About one third of the persons in households of the man, wife and children type and about half of those in households comprising one parent and children were gainfully occupied

The numbers and percentages of persons aged 65 years and over in each County and County Borough who were living alone, distinguishing males and females are shown in TABLE 28 Corresponding figures for persons aged 70 years and over are shown in TABLE 29
