CENSUS OF POPULATION, 1979

EXPLANATORY NOTES

A Census of Population was taken on the night of 1 April, 1979 in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1979*. The following particulars were collected in respect of each individual – (i) Name, (ii) Sex, (iii) Relationship to Head of Household, (iv) Date of Birth, (v) Marital Status and (vi) Change of residence from outside the State during the twelve months preceding the Census date.

The present Volume of the Census Report contains the final figures of the population enumerated in each area, classified by sex. Two further Volumes containing analyses of the population according to age groups, marital status, household composition and inward migration from outside the State will also be published.

COVERAGE OF THE CENSUS.

The Census figures relate to the de facto population, that is to say the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundaries on the night of Sunday, 1 April, 1979, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 2 April, 1979, not having been enumerated elsewhere; persons on board ships in port are included with the population of adjacent areas. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on Census night as well as those in residence, while usual residents temporarily absent from the State are excluded. The date of the Census was, however, chosen to coincide with a period when passenger movements were at a minimum and consequently the figures closely approximate to those for the normally resident population. Members of the Defence Forces who, on Census night, were serving abroad with the United Nations were excluded from the enumeration.

THE CONDUCT OF THE CENSUS.

The Census enumeration was carried out by a specially recruited temporary field force consisting of 258 supervisors and 3,181 part-time enumerators. The Census household schedules were distributed during the three weeks immediately preceding Census date, 1 April, and the collection of the completed schedules was commenced on the day after Census date. The Enumerators examined the returns at the time of collection to ensure that they were correctly completed and, where necessary, they assisted householders in filling in the forms. Each enumerator prepared in the first instance a summary of the population in his area and from these summaries the Preliminary Report of the Census†, which was published in September, 1979, was compiled. The completed schedules for the individual households were subsequently transmitted to the Census Office for the preparation of the remaining Volumes of the Census Report.

*The Statistics (Census of Population) Order, 1979 (S.I. No. 55 of 1979) was made by the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by Sub-Section (1) of Section 16 of the Statistics Act, 1926 and the Statistics Acts, 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order, 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949).

ADMINISTRATIVE AREAS DISTINGUISHED IN THE CENSUS.

There are many important territorial divisions of the country, of which the most important, from the point of view of the Census of Population, are described in pages xvi and xvii, which also contain references to the relevant tables containing the population figures for these areas. It should be particularly noted that the areas concerned are as defined at the date of the 1979 Census and any subsequent revisions have not been taken into account. A number of changes in legally defined boundaries were made by Government Orders in the period since the previous Census was taken in 1971; details of these changes are contained in Appendix A. In this Report population figures are given for the same types of area as in the previous Census with two exceptions: the first concerns urban areas which is dealt with in the following Section and the other concerns a classification of the population according to Superintendent Registrars' Districts and Registrars' Districts which was included in the 1971 Census Report but which has not been compiled on this occasion.

THE CLASSIFICATION OF URBAN AREAS.

The urban areas covered in this Report - County Boroughs, Urban Districts (and Boroughs) and other towns with legal boundaries are in most cases the nuclei of considerably larger urban communities as considerable numbers of persons who can be regarded as belonging to these communities live outside the legal boundaries. In the 1971 and the immediately preceding Censuses special "suburbs" or "environs" for these towns were defined, while for other urban areas which were not legally constituted, but which contained 50 or more occupied houses, special Census boundaries were drawn up on the basis of consistent criteria (these latter urban areas were called "Census" towns). The boundaries of all these special urban areas have to be determined for each Census on the basis of special field surveys. These surveys could not be undertaken in time for the special 1979 Census which was limited in content and was taken primarily to provide up-to-date population figures for the Electoral Commission in revising Dáil Constituency boundaries. Because of this limitation, population figures for "aggregate town" and "aggregate rural" areas as defined in previous Censuses are not available for 1979. A comprehensive classification of all urban areas involving the identification of suburbs, environs and "Census towns", will again be carried out on the occasion of the next Census of Population.

AREA FIGURES SHOWN.

The area figures shown in Tables 7 and 8 are derived from the Valuation Office and are exclusive of the areas of certain lakes, rivers and tideways.

DATA FOR MARRIAGES, BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

Although certain statistics of marriages, births and deaths are contained in Tables 1 and 4 of this Report they are not collected as part of the Census of Population but are derived from the registration of these events recorded by the Office of the Registrar General. Many births and deaths take place in institutions which may be some distance from the normal place of residence and are registered in the districts in which the institutions are situated. For the purpose of statistical analysis, births have been reassigned according to the home address of the mother and deaths have been reassigned according to the home address of the deceased. Precise reallocation is not always possible on the basis of the information available, particularly when a distinction is involved between County Boroughs and the remainder of the corresponding Counties. Some caution should therefore be exercised in interpreting the figures contained in Table 4.

COMMENTARY

TOTAL POPULATION AND POPULATION OF PROVINCES

The population enumerated on Census night, 1979 was 3,368,217 persons, compared with 2,978,248 in April, 1971, representing a change over eight years of 389,969 persons, or 13.1 per cent. This represents a significantly increased rate of population growth in comparison with recent intercensal periods. It is equivalent to a rate of population increase of 8.0 per cent for a five year period which compares with 3.3 per cent during the period 1966-'71 and 2.3 per cent over the period 1961-'66. The accelerating rise in population in recent years has restored the total State figure to about the average level which pertained during the 1891-1901 intercensal period.

The results of Censuses since 1926, giving totals and numbers of males and females for provinces are summarised in Table A. Substantial population growth was recorded in every province between 1971 and 1979. Leinster showed the highest rate, 16.4 per cent, followed by Munster with an increase of 11.1 per cent, while Connacht and Ulster (three counties) also recorded substantial population increases of 7.1 and 9.1 per cent, respectively. Growth rates in all cases were substantially higher than in earlier periods. For Leinster the rate of population increase when adjusted to a five year period is 10.0 per cent which compares with 5.9 per cent during the period 1966-'71 while the corresponding comparative figures for Munster for these two intercensal periods are 6.8 per cent and 2.6 per cent, respectively. The 1979 population figures for Connacht and the Ulster counties represent a reversal of a long-standing and continuous downward trend going back to the early part of the last century. While Leinster has experienced population growth since the turn of the century, and Munster since 1961, the increases recorded for Connacht and Ulster (three counties) in the 1979 Census are the first since the Census of 1841.

The number of males in the State increased by 197,512 over the period 1971-'79 while the number of females went up by a somewhat smaller amount - 192,457. This represents a slight change from the previous intercensal period 1966-'71 when the increases in population for males were marginally less than for females. In Leinster the male population increased by 125,049 between 1971 and 1979 and the female population went up by 120,672; a similar pattern is evident for Munster where the number of males increased by 50,140 and the females by 47,677 while in Ulster the corresponding figures are 9,841 and 8,992 respectively. In Connacht however, the female population increased at a faster rate, going up by 15,116, the number of males increasing by 12,482.

Table B following shows the number of females per thousand males in the State and in each Province for each Census since 1926. At each Census there was an excess of males in the population, the 1936 figure of 952 females per thousand males being in fact the lowest ever recorded. The trend in the Censuses up to 1971 was for this male excess to decrease, the 1971 figure of 991 being the highest since the Census of 1911. There was a slight decline in this ratio in 1979, to 989. The differences between the Provinces have decreased, the Leinster figure of 1,022 for 1979 reflects a continuing decline in the ratio for that Province while the figure of 936 for Connacht reflects a continuing rise for the Province, the lowest value being in 1951.

POPULATIONS OF COUNTIES AND COUNTY BOROUGHS.

Table C gives population figures for counties and county boroughs for 1971 and 1979, together with the actual and percentage changes for the eight year period. Percentage changes for the three most recent intercensal periods are given in the final columns of the Table where it should be noted that the rates of change shown for the period 1971-'79 have been converted to a five year basis to facilitate valid comparisons of growth rates.

In Leinster substantial increases in population were recorded for all counties between 1971 and 1979, with the exception of Dublin County Borough. The largest increase occurred in Dublin County (exclusive of the County Borough and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire) where the total population rose from 231,182 to 384,853, an increase of nearly 154,000 or 66.5 per cent. There was a decrease of 23,280, (4.1 per cent) in the County Borough while the population of Dun Laoghaire Borough rose only marginally by 1,073 (2.0 per cent). The net effect of these changes is that the aggregate population of Dublin City and County increased from 852,219 to 983,683 over the period 1971-'79, an increase of over 131,000 persons, or 15.4 per cent. This rate of increase is slightly lower than the 16.4 per cent growth recorded for the province of Leinster as a whole. When converted to a five year basis the change for Dublin City and County represents a rate of increase of 9.4 per cent which exceeds the 7.2 per cent increase between 1966 and 1971 and is a little lower than the 10.7 per cent recorded for the period 1961-'66.

It is of interest to note that the counties adjacent to Dublin experienced very substantial increases in population between 1971 and 1979 - Kildare 35.0 per cent, Meath 26.7 per cent and Wicklow 26.6 per cent. It is likely that these increases are in part due to the increasing tendency for these counties to serve as dormitory areas for Dublin. These counties, together with County Louth, also showed the largest growth rates in Leinster in earlier periods.

Cork R.D.....	+ 46.7

Note:- In compiling the percentage changes for this map Municipal Boroughs and Urban Districts have been included with the adjoining Rural Districts.

Population increases were recorded for all counties in Munster ranging from 6.7 per cent in Kerry to 13.2 per cent in Clare. In the County Boroughs the increases were somewhat smaller - of the order of 6 to 7½ per cent in Cork and Limerick and 2.0 per cent in Waterford. It should be noted, however, that for the corresponding counties (exclusive of the County Boroughs) there were very substantial increases - 15.0 per cent, 16.0 per cent and 20.5 per cent, respectively, so that in each case the combined county and county borough area showed a rise of 12 to 13 per cent.

Of the three Ulster counties, Donegal recorded the greatest increase in population, 12.5 per cent. In Connacht, Galway showed the largest population increase, 12.5 per cent, followed by Sligo with 8.6 per cent. Although the population of County Leitrim declined between 1971 and 1979, by just under 2 per cent - leaving this county as the only one in the State to experience a fall in population - the rate of decline was very much lower than in previous periods.

As already mentioned the population changes in the counties of Connacht and Ulster over the period 1971-'79 reflect a substantial change in population trends. In the case of Cavan, Donegal, Mayo, Roscommon and Sligo population increases were recorded for the first time since 1841, as is also the case for the Leinster county of Longford.

The map shown on page xi illustrates the growth in population in Different Rural Districts* over the period 1971-'79. The heavily shaded areas are those where the highest increases in population took place. It can be seen from these, and from the insets shown on the map, that the largest increases were in the Eastern part of the Country and in the areas surrounding the County Boroughs, even though, as indicated already, the population actually declined in Dublin County Borough and the increases in the other County Boroughs were relatively modest.

In the western part of the Country substantial increases in population were recorded in the areas surrounding Galway City and Sligo Urban District and in County Donegal generally. There were decreases in population in West Kerry, West Clare, North-West Mayo and in an aggregate area covering adjacent parts of Sligo, East Mayo, North-East Galway, Roscommon and Leitrim.

NET MIGRATION ESTIMATED FROM CENSUS RECORDS AND VITAL STATISTICS DATA.

The population totals from the 1971 and 1979 Censuses can be used in conjunction with the data for births and deaths registered in the intervening period to estimate figures for net migration. In the eight year period 1971-'79 total births numbered 548,413 while total deaths numbered 267,378 giving a natural increase of 281,035. The actual population increase of 389,969 in the same period was higher by 108,934. This difference measures the net immigration - the excess of inward migration over outward migration in the eight year period.

TABLE D:- BIRTHS, DEATHS AND ESTIMATED NET MIGRATION IN THE INTERCENSAL PERIOD 1971-1979.

	Persons	Males	Females
Births	548,413	281,773	266,640
Deaths	267,378	145,533	121,845
(1/4/71 - 31/3/79)
Natural increase (excess of births over deaths)	281,035	136,240	144,795
Increase in population	389,969	197,512	192,457
Estimated net migration (immigrants less emigrants)	108,934	61,272	47,662

*Dublin County and County Borough is shown as a composite area and the other County Boroughs and Urban Districts are included with the adjoining Rural Districts. More detailed information on the population growth within Rural Districts and the County Boroughs with which they are aggregated is given in the insets shown on the map.

Table E following gives figures for changes in population, natural increase and net migration for each intercensal period since 1926 expressed in the form of annual averages. The main interest in this particular table centres on the derived migration figures where the annual average for the 1971-'79 period, calculated as a net inflow of 13,617 represents a reversal of a long-standing pattern of net emigration. The corresponding calculations for the 1966-'71 and 1961-'66 intercensal periods yielded annual net migratory outflows of 10,781 and 16,121, respectively, and as the table shows, the net outward migration averages calculated for the three intercensal periods before that were substantially greater. In fact, 1971-'79 is the first intercensal period for which a net inflow has been recorded.

1966-1971	+ 6.4	10.1	- 3.7
1971-1979	+ 15.4	11.1	+ 4.3

The annual averages for population change, natural increase and net migration given in Table E are shown in the form of annual rates per thousand of the average population in Table F, the average population in this context being taken as one half of the sum of the populations at each end of the intercensal period. These latter calculations show clearly the derivation of the net migration rate and the substantial change that has taken place. For 1971-'79 the rate of natural increase of 11.1 per thousand average population is 4.3 less than the corresponding rate of population increase as recorded by the Census implying a rate of net immigration of 4.3 per thousand. In preceding periods the average rate of population increase was less than the rate of natural increase the difference representing the average rate of net emigration. The rate of emigration, as measured in this way, had been declining since 1961.

Estimated net migration figures can also be derived for Counties and County Boroughs in a similar fashion by comparing the figures for the change in population with the natural increase for each of the areas concerned. The calculations in respect of the intercensal period 1971-'79 are set out in Table 4 of the detailed tabulations. It should be borne in mind, however, that the county figures for net migration take into account all movement into and out of each county whether to or from abroad, or whether to or from another part of the State.

Derived annual rates of net migration per thousand of the average population for each county are shown in Table G following, along with corresponding rates for each intercensal period since 1946.

*County and County Borough.

All counties, with the exception of Tipperary North Riding, Leitrim and Cavan experienced net inward migration during the period 1971-'79. In contrast, in the preceding intercensal period 1966-'71, all except five counties showed some level of net outward migration. In Dublin City and County the average annual rate per thousand of the average population was 4.0 inwards in 1971-'79 which contrasts with a figure of 0.7 outwards in 1966-'71. Very high levels of net inward migration are shown for the counties adjacent to Dublin during the period 1971-'79, the rates for Kildare, Meath and Wicklow being 18.3, 15.6 and 14.5 respectively; in fact the total net inward movement to these three counties accounted for about one half of their very large population rise.

In Munster, Clare was the county with the greatest incidence of net inward migration with a rate of 7.3 per thousand of the average population, followed by Cork and Waterford with rates slightly in excess of 4. In Connacht, both Galway and Sligo had rates of nearly 5 while the position in Mayo and Roscommon was one of virtually nil net migration between 1971 and 1979. Of the three Ulster counties Donegal experienced the highest rate of net inward migration with a rate of 7.2 while the rate for Monaghan was 3.2. County Cavan experienced a net outflow, the rate per thousand of the average population being 3.0.

POPULATION TRENDS FOR DIFFERENT PLANNING REGIONS.

Population totals for 1971 and 1979 for different Planning Regions (see Appendix B) along with changes over the period and figures for natural increase and estimated net migration are shown in Table H.

The annual rate of population growth, measured in terms of the number of persons per thousand of the average population over the period 1971-'79, was greatest in the East Region at 20.9. In five Regions - South-West, South-East, North-East, Mid-West and Donegal average growth rates of between 11 and 15 persons per thousand of the average population were recorded while in the Midlands and West Regions the corresponding rate was approximately 10. The lowest rate of increase, just under 6, occurred in the North-West Region.

All regions experienced a net inward migration in the 1971-'79 period, the greatest rate being for the Donegal and East Regions where the annual rate of net inward migration was approximately 7 per thousand of average population. The lowest net inflow was in the North-East Region where the corresponding average rate was just in excess of 1.

DETAILS OF ADMINISTRATIVE AREAS DISTINGUISHED IN THE CENSUS.

TOWNLANDS.

The enumeration of the Census is carried out, in the first instance, by townlands in rural areas and by streets in urban areas. The townland is the smallest territorial division used for administrative purposes. Population figures in respect of townlands, of which there are about 51,000, have not been published since the Census of 1911. However populations of individual townlands in rural areas are available from the Census records and will be furnished on request on payment for the work of extraction involved. Townlands are not used as administrative areas within the boundaries of legally defined urban areas- County Boroughs, Urban Districts and Towns under the Towns Improvement Act 1854 - and in most other urban areas without legal boundaries it is not possible to compile townland population figures as building development has completely obliterated the physical features by which townland boundaries were originally defined on Ordnance Survey maps.

DISTRICT ELECTORAL DIVISIONS.

The smallest administrative area for which population statistics are published is the District Electoral Division (or, in the County Boroughs, the Ward). In rural areas each District Electoral Division consists of an aggregation of entire townlands. There are 3,308 District Electoral Divisions and Wards in the State and population figures for these are contained in Table 8 of this Volume.

URBAN AND RURAL DISTRICTS.

District Electoral Divisions are aggregated to give Urban Districts (or Boroughs where appropriate) and (former) Rural Districts which, in turn, build up to Counties. The Rural Districts, which numbered 160, were abolished as administrative areas in 1925 (in the case of Rural Districts in County Dublin, in 1930) but have been retained for Census purposes as convenient units of area, intermediate in size between District Electoral Divisions and Counties. In the case of County Dublin however it is not possible to compile Rural District figures because of extensive revisions which have taken place in the boundaries of District Electoral Divisions over the years. Figures are, therefore shown only for Dublin North County, comprising the former Rural Districts of Balrothery and Dublin North and Clonsilla District Electoral Division and for Dublin South County, comprising the remainder of the County excluding Dun Laoghaire Borough. Population figures for Urban and Rural Districts are contained in Tables 7 and 8 of this Volume. A map giving County and Rural District boundaries is shown on page x and a further map illustrating the percentage change in population over the period 1971-'79 in each Rural District is given on page xi.

COUNTIES AND COUNTY BOROUGHES.

The country is divided into 26 Counties and 4 County Boroughs, these being the principal units of area for Local Government purposes. One County, Tipperary, is divided into a North Riding and a South Riding each of which ranks as a separate County for administrative purposes. The boundaries of the County Boroughs are subject to periodic extensions to keep pace with building development and it is not possible therefore to show comparable population figures for an extended period. Counties, on the other hand, have only been affected to a very minor extent by boundary changes so that it is possible to compare county populations (including the appropriate County Boroughs) over a very long period of time. This is done in Table 5 which shows County population figures for each Census year from 1841 to 1979.

TOWNS WITH LEGAL BOUNDARIES.

Apart from the urban areas constituted in the form of County Boroughs and Urban Districts (including Boroughs) this Volume also contains population figures for 29 other towns with legally defined boundaries. These are the towns scheduled under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854. The populations of these towns are given in Table 7.

DÁIL CONSTITUENCIES.

For the purpose of elections to Dáil Éireann the country is divided into constituencies which, under Article 16.4^o of the Constitution of Ireland, have to be revised at least once every twelve years with due regard to changes in the distribution of the population. The Constituencies were last revised in 1974 and the Schedule to the Electoral (Amendment) Act, 1974, contains details of their composition. Population figures for these areas are contained in Table 10.

COUNTY AND BOROUGH ELECTORAL AREAS.

For the purpose of County Council Elections each county is divided into Electoral Areas which are constituted on the basis of Orders made under the Local Government Act, 1941. These areas are, in general, formed by aggregating District Electoral Divisions; in a number of cases however District Electoral Divisions are divided between County Electoral Areas to facilitate electors. In the case of the County Boroughs the Corporation Elections are based on Borough Electoral Areas. Population figures for County and Borough Electoral Areas are contained in Table 11. Details of changes which have been made in the various Electoral Areas between 1971 and 1979 are given in Appendix A.

CIVIL PARISHES.

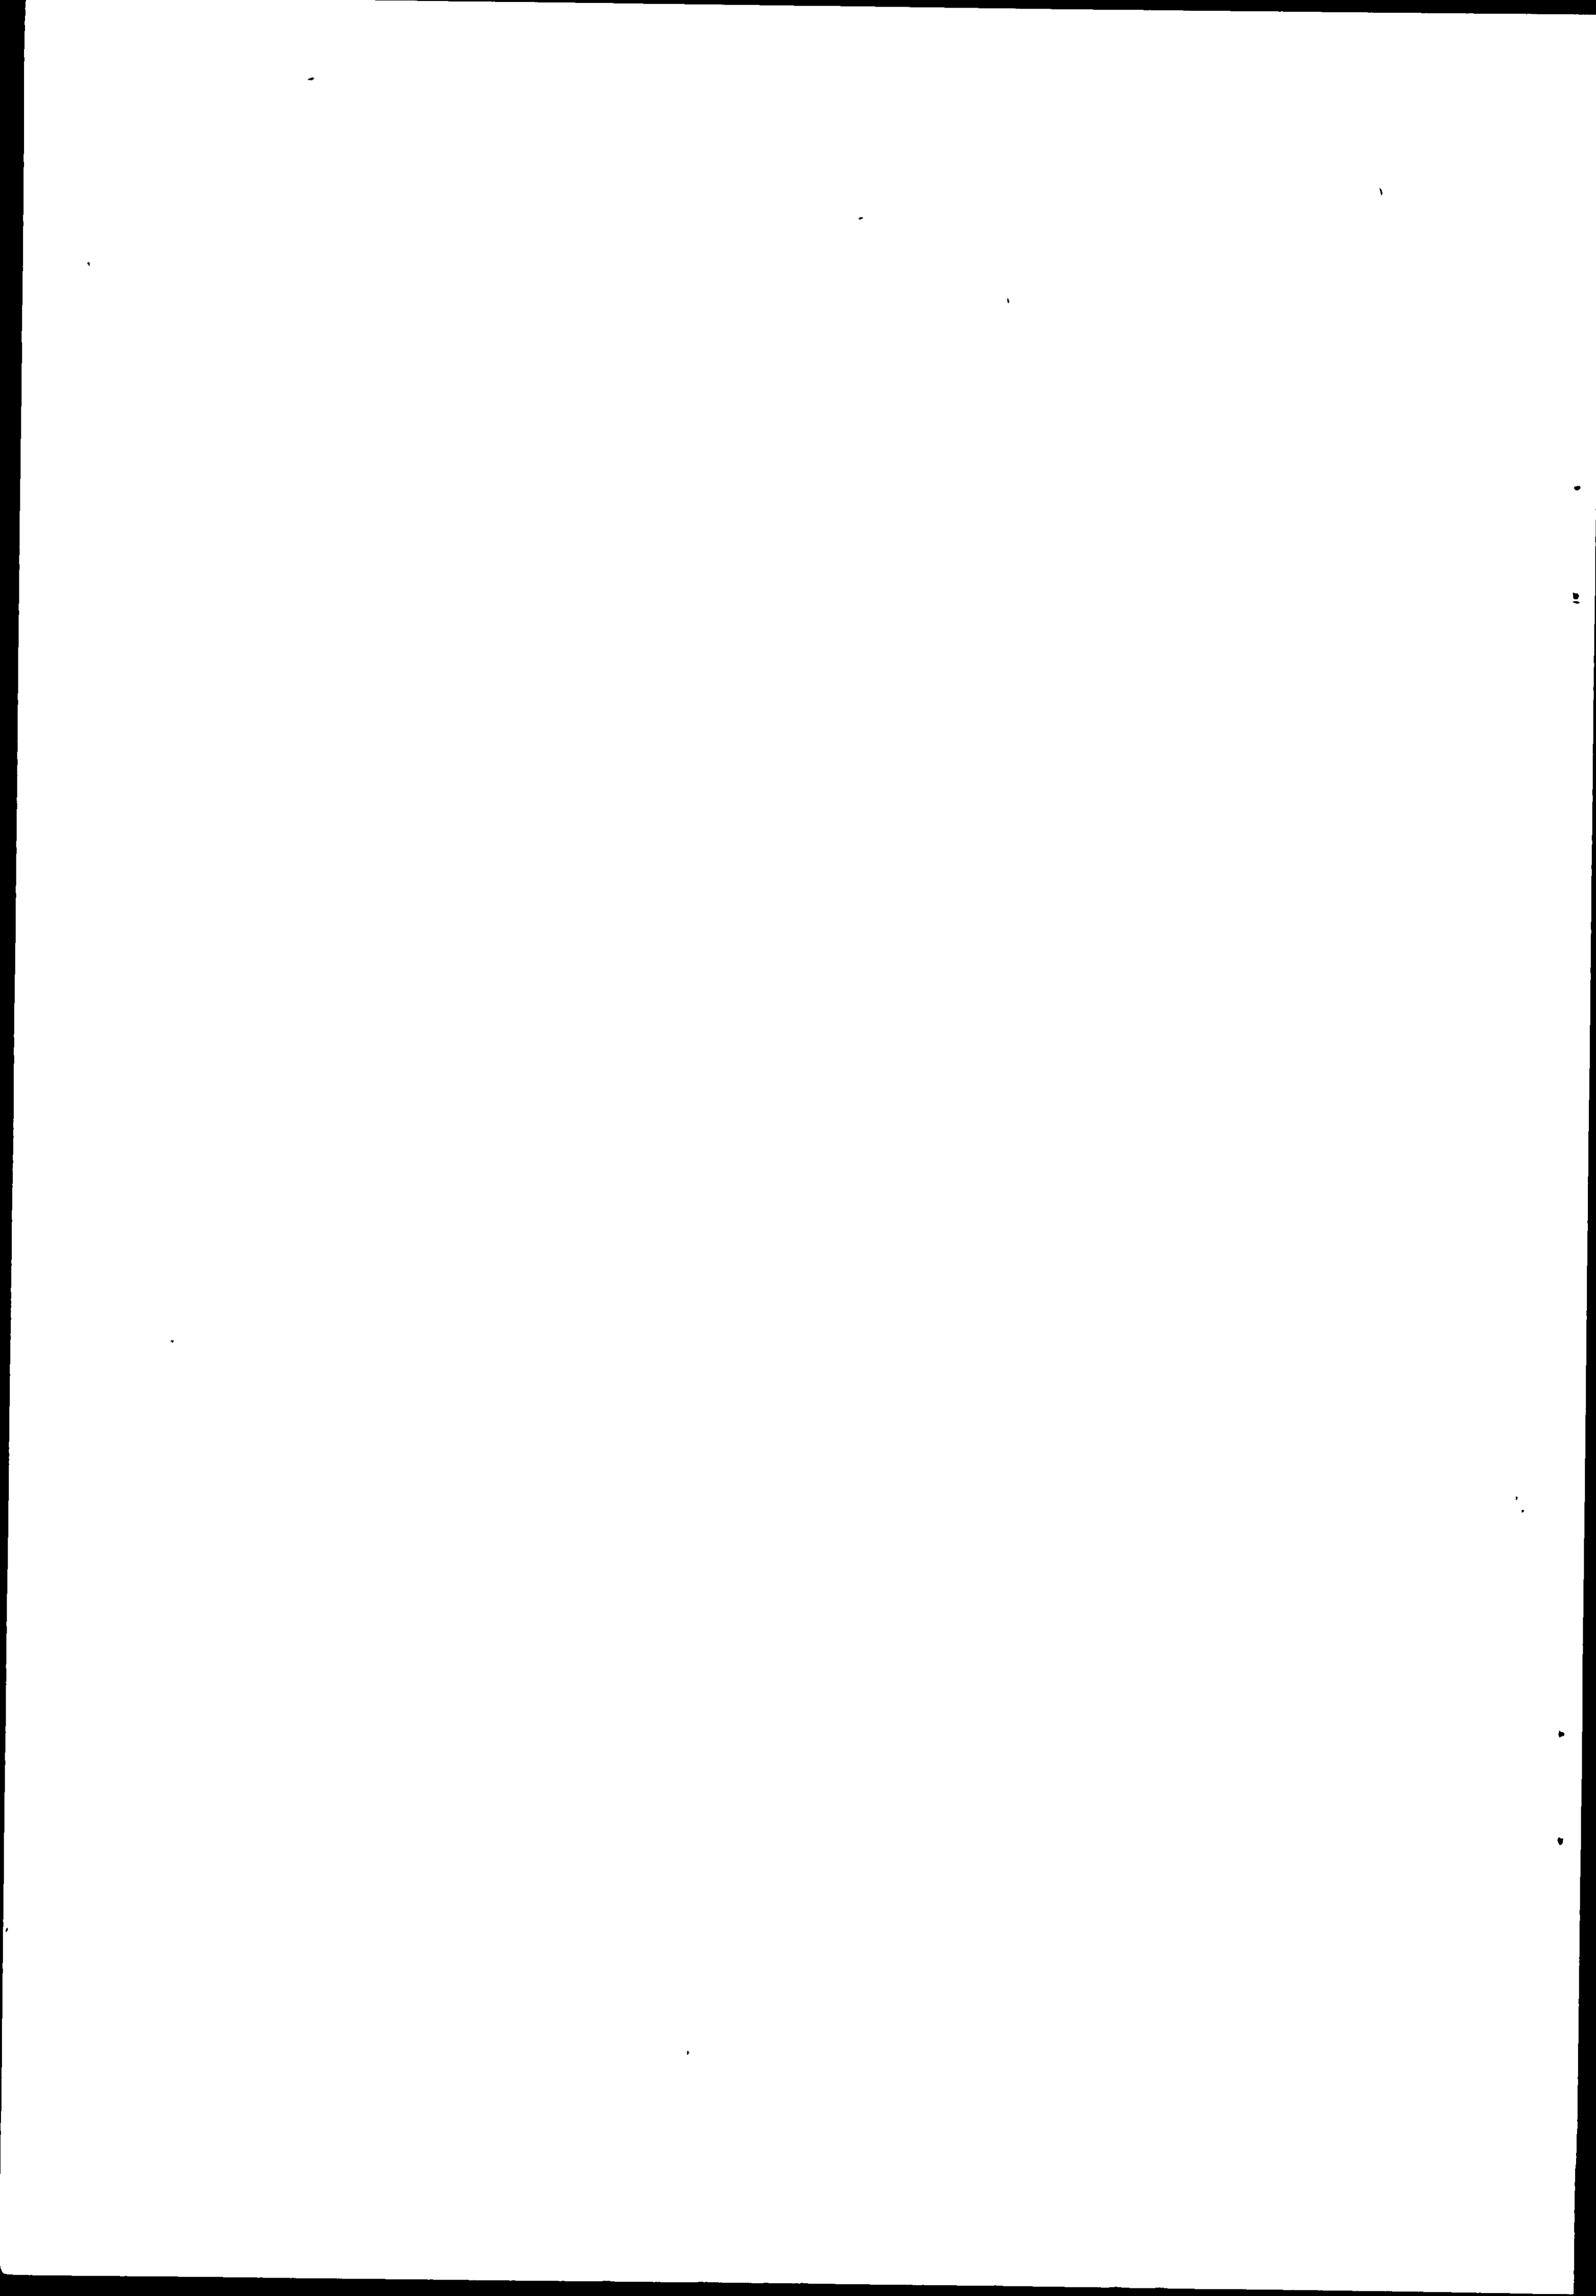

Originally an Ecclesiastical Division and later used for civil purposes, the Civil Parish has for many years been obsolete as an administrative unit of area and statistics relating to Civil Parishes for the country as a whole have not been published since the 1911 Census. Numerous requests are however, still received for population figures for Civil Parishes, particularly those in the County Boroughs. In Table 12A the populations of the Civil Parishes in Dublin County and County Borough are given while Table 12B contains population figures for the Civil Parishes in or adjacent to the County Boroughs of Cork, Limerick and Waterford.

GAELTACHT AREAS.

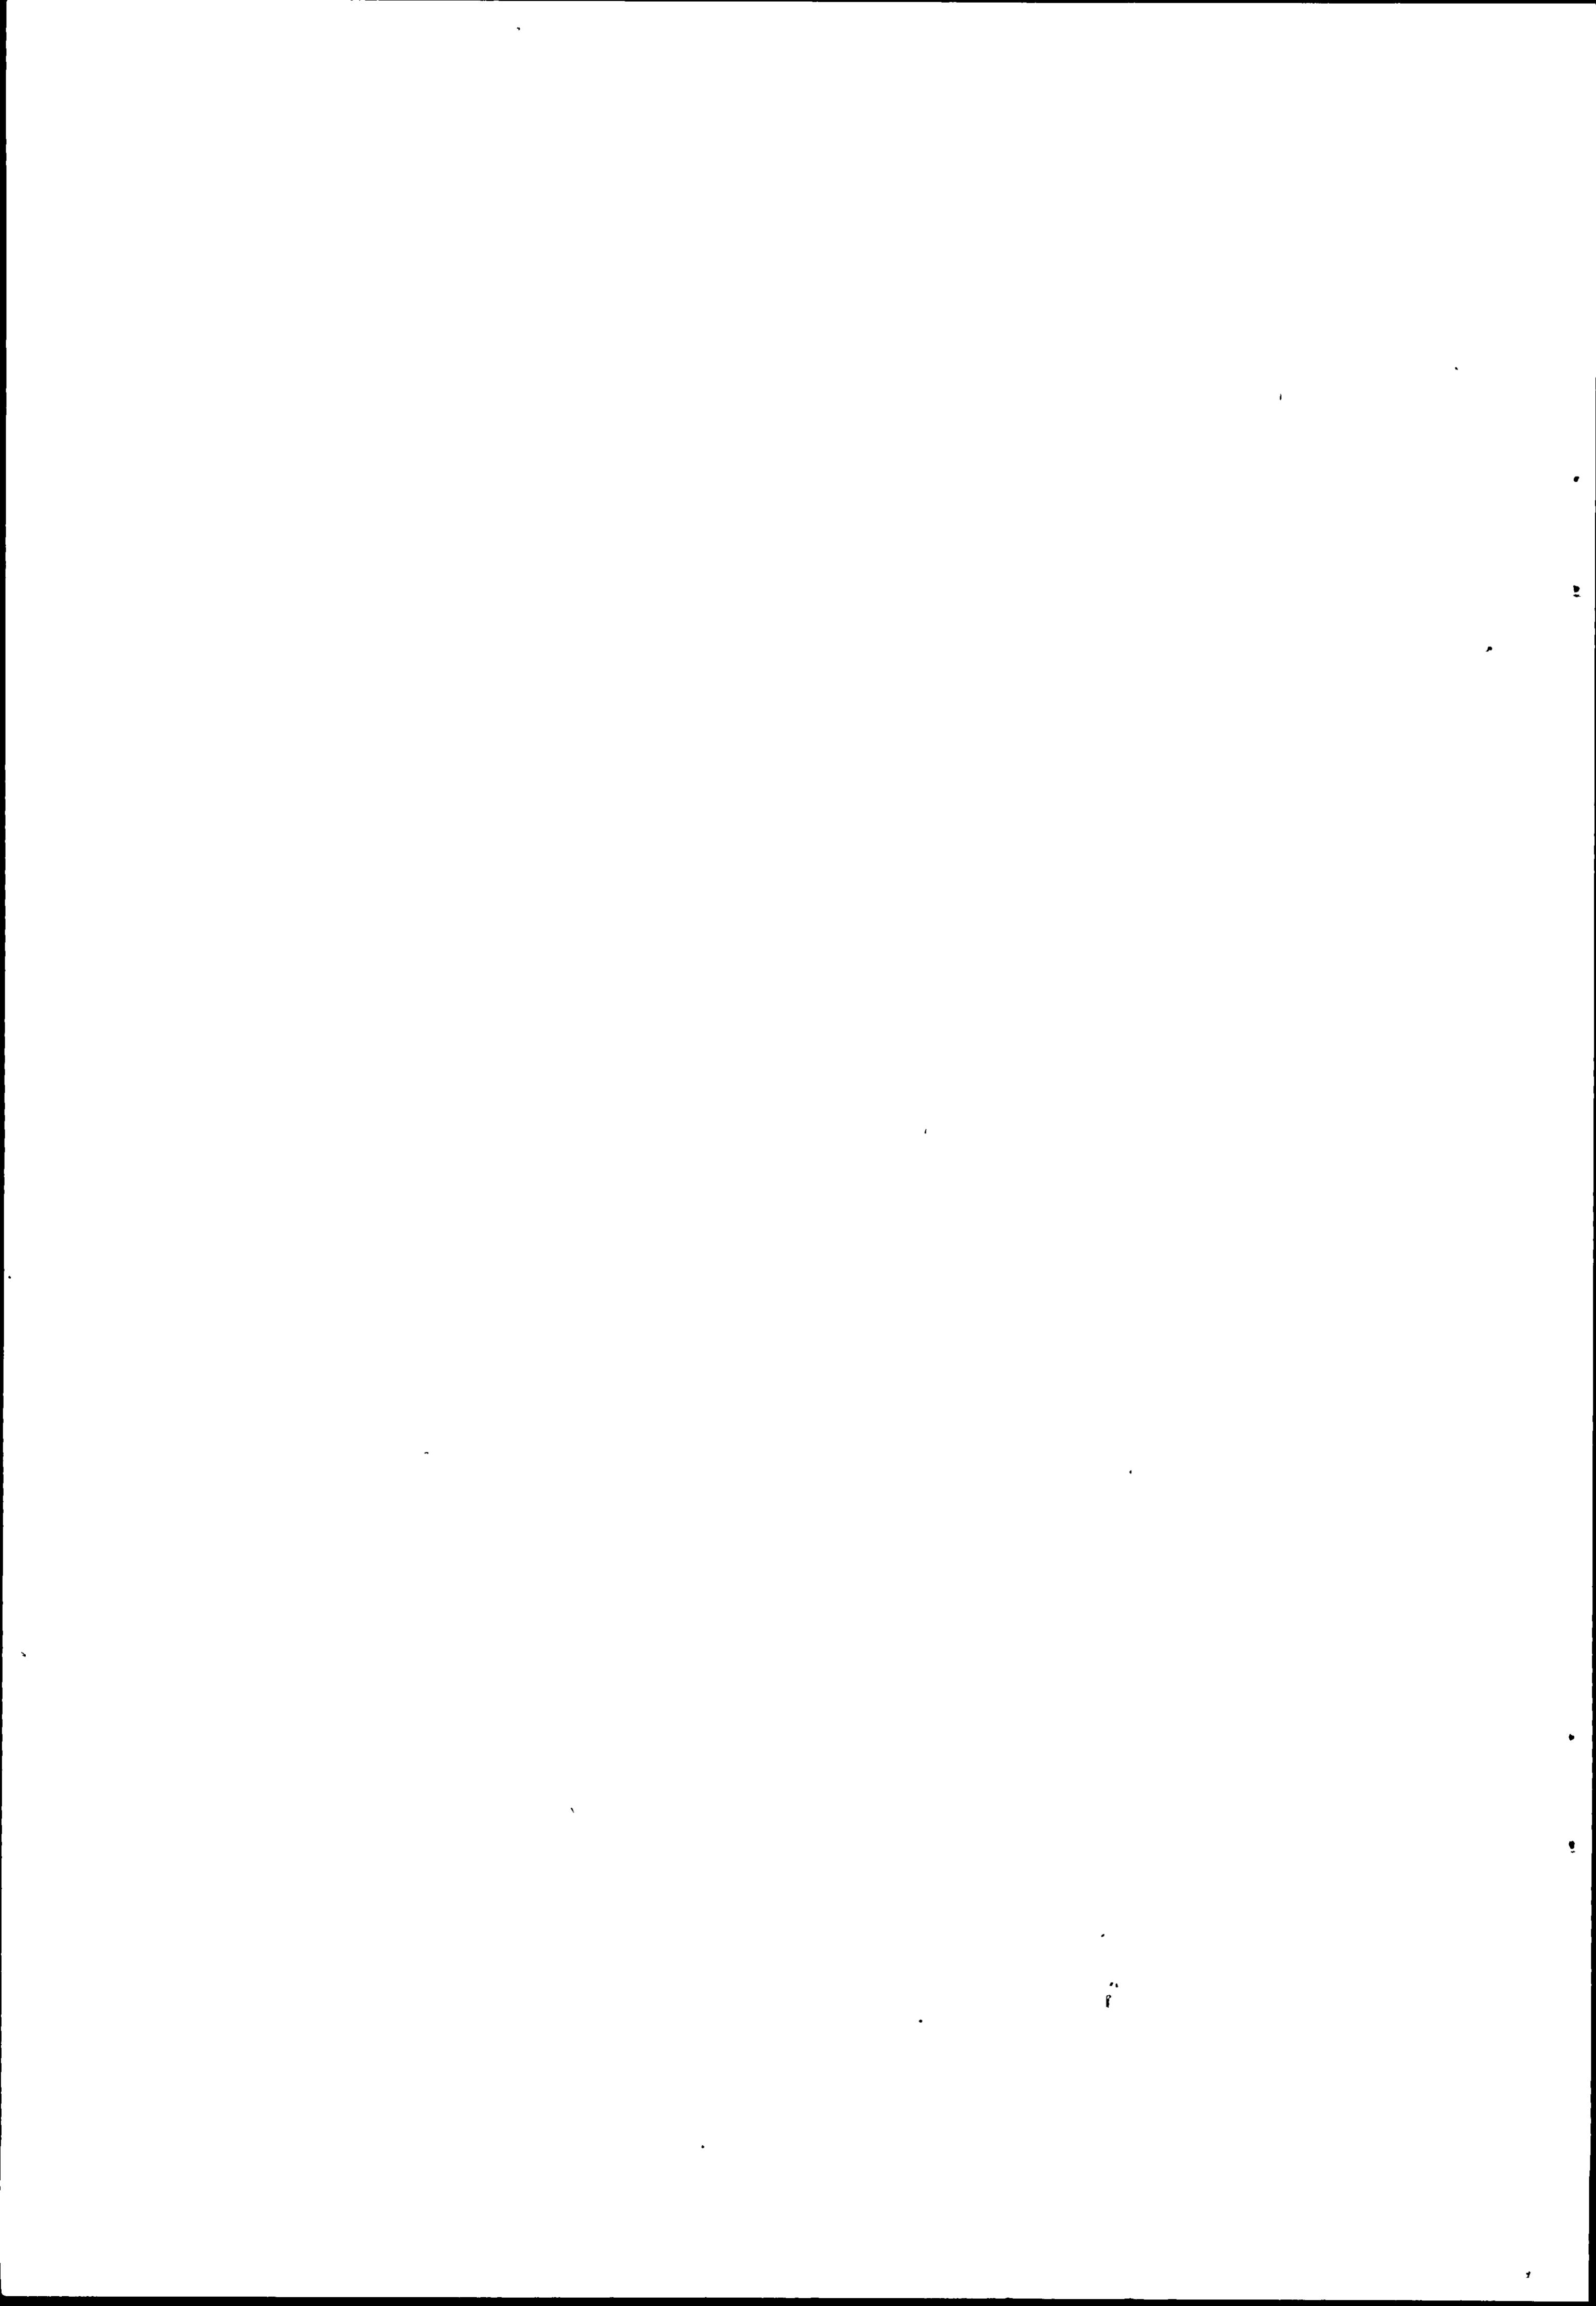

The Gaeltacht Area Orders, 1956, 1967 and 1974 define the Gaeltacht as comprising 151 District Electoral Divisions or parts of District Electoral Divisions in the Counties of Cork, Donegal, Galway, Kerry, Mayo, Meath and Waterford. The populations of these District Electoral Divisions or parts of the relevant District Electoral Divisions in 1966, 1971 and 1979 are given in Table 13.

ISLANDS OFF THE COAST.

The populations, in 1971 and 1979, of inhabited islands off the coast are shown in Table 14. In some cases the areas of land concerned may not, strictly speaking, be considered as islands since they are connected to the mainland by a causeway or bridge, or may be reached by land at low tide.

APPENDIX A

CHANGES, SINCE 1971, IN THE ADMINISTRATIVE AREAS DISTINGUISHED IN THE CENSUS

CHANGES IN BOUNDARIES OF COUNTIES

Under the Local Government Provisional Order Confirmation Act, 1976 (No. 1 (Private) of 1976), part of the D.E.D. of St. Mary's in Meath County was detached from that county and added to Louth County. The comparative 1971 population figures shown in this volume for the two counties in question relate to the areas of those counties as constituted after the coming into operation of the abovementioned Act.

CHANGES IN LEGALLY DEFINED BOUNDARIES OF TOWNS

Since 1971, the following changes in boundaries have been made in respect of the towns specified in this Appendix. In each case, the comparative population figures for 1971 shown in this volume relate to the area of the town as constituted after the coming into operation of the Order in question.

BRAY

Under the Urban District of Bray (Alteration of Boundary) Order, 1978 (S.I. No. 370 of 1978) part of the D.E.D. of Kilmacanogue was transferred to the Urban District of Bray.
