GENERAL DETAILS

Introduction

A Census of Population was taken on the night of Sunday, 13 April 1986 in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order 1986 (S.I. No. 61 of 1986)*. Copies of the Census questionnaire and of accompanying instructions are reproduced in Appendix 1.

This volume of the detailed Census Report provides the population for different territorial divisions of the country classified by sex - most of this information has already been published in the series of Local Population Reports (Appendix 5). The areas are defined in Appendices 2 - 4. All are as defined at the date of the 1986 Census of Population.

Subsequent volumes will analyse the population by such factors as age, marital status, household composition, occupation, etc..

Coverage

The Census figures relate to the de facto population - i.e. the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundaries on the night of Sunday, 13 April 1986, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 14 April 1986 not having been enumerated elsewhere. Persons on board ships in port are included with the population of adjacent areas. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on Census night as well as those in residence, while usual residents temporarily absent from the area are excluded.

The date of the Census was chosen to coincide with a period when passenger movements were at a minimum and, consequently, the figures closely approximate to those for the normally resident population. Members of the Defence Forces who on Census night were serving abroad with the United Nations were excluded from the enumeration.

Conduct of the Census

The Census enumeration was carried out by a specially recruited temporary field force consisting of 327 full-time supervisors and 3,221 part-time enumerators. The Census questionnaires were distributed during the three weeks immediately preceding the Census night and the collection of the completed questionnaires commenced the following day. The enumerators examined the questionnaires at the time of collection to ensure that they were correctly completed; and, where necessary, they assisted householders in their completion.

*Made by the Minister of State at the Department of the Taoiseach in pursuance of powers conferred on him by Sub-Section 1 of Section 16 of the Statistics Act 1926 and the Statistics Acts 1926 and 1946 (Transfer of Ministerial Functions) Order 1949 (S.I. No. 142 of 1949), and the Statistics (Delegations of Ministerial Functions) Order 1983 (S.I. No. 13 of 1983).

Production of Results

Each enumerator prepared in the first instance a summary of the population in the corresponding enumeration area. These summaries formed the basis for the provisional 1986 population results issued in two Census publications within months of the Census date*. The completed questionnaires for the individual households were subsequently transmitted to the Census Office for processing.

The enumeration summaries, dwelling listings and enumeration maps were checked for consistency in county order and used to determine the boundaries of Census Towns and suburbs/environs of towns with legal boundaries. The first stage clerical scrutiny and computer processing of the entries for date of birth, marital status and relationship to head of household on the Census questionnaire proceeded concurrently in the same county order. These two operations combined allowed the publication of the first set of final Census results in a special series of Local Population Reports (see Appendix 5) as individual counties were completed over a seven month period commencing in July 1987. A summary report for the State was issued in November 1987.

These operations also form the basis of the first three national volumes of the detailed Census report. The computer processing of the remaining information on the Census questionnaires continues during 1988 in the same county order and will provide the basis for a second set of Local Population Reports and national volumes.

Small Area Population Statistics (SAPS)

Small area population statistics for Urban Districts, Rural Districts, Towns, District Electoral Divisions, etc. from the 1986 Census are being made available on a commercial basis in two phases. The first phase information is already available containing detailed classifications of the population by age, sex and marital status and of households by size and by age, sex and marital status of the head of the household. Details of family units classified by size, age of youngest child, etc. are also provided. The second phase information containing classification by economic status, occupation, etc. will become available for individual counties once the corresponding second stage processing is completed.

These small area population statistics are available in the form of computer printout, magnetic tape or diskette. For full details of the contents and charges contact:

Comparable 1986 and 1981 Populations for Areas

Throughout this publication every effort has been made to give comparable population figures at the 1981 Census. Consequently, figures given in this publication will differ from those published for the 1981 Census in the case of administrative districts and Census towns where alterations in boundaries were made between 1981 and 1986.

Area Measurements

The measurement of area in hectares is shown where possible in Tables 11 and 12. The areas shown are exclusive of the areas of certain lakes, rivers and tideways. Since the boundaries of Census Towns and those defined for the suburbs and environs of legally defined towns have no statutory designation no area figures are available in these cases. It has not been possible to compile the areas within certain legal boundaries altered since 1981.

Figures for Marriages, Births and Deaths

The statistics of marriages, births and deaths contained in Tables 1 and 5 of this publication are not collected as part of the Census but are derived from the registration of these events recorded by the Office of the Registrar General. Many births and deaths occur in institutions which may be distant from the usual place of residence and are registered in districts in which the institutions are situated. For the purpose of this publication births have been reassigned according to the home address of the mother and deaths have been reassigned according to the home address of the deceased. Precise reallocation is not always possible on the basis of the information available, particularly when a distinction is involved between county boroughs and the remainder of the corresponding counties. Some caution should, therefore, be exercised in interpreting the figures contained in Table 5.

COMMENTARY

Population of State and Provinces

The population enumerated on Census night 1986 was 3,540,600 persons compared with 3,443,400 in April 1981 representing an increase of 97,200 persons or 2.8 per cent. The average annual rate of population increase for the 1981-1986 intercensal period was 0.6 per cent compared with 1.1 per cent and 1.6 per cent in the 1979-1981 and 1971-1979 intercensal periods respectively. The continuing increase in population observed at each Census since 1961 has restored the total State figure to the level which pertained in 1888/1889. The results of Censuses since 1926, giving totals and numbers of males and females for Provinces, are summarised in Table A.

A growth in population was recorded for each of the provinces between 1981 and 1986 amounting to 3.5 per cent for Leinster, 2.2 per cent for Munster, 1.6 per cent for Connacht and 2.5 per cent for Ulster (three counties). This was the third consecutive Census to record a population increase for Connacht and Ulster (three counties) following the continuous downward trend over the previous 130 years since the Census of 1841.

Ratio of the Number of Females to Males

Between 1981 and 1986 the number of males in the State increased by 40,300 while the number of females increased by 56,900 or 16,600 more than the increase for males. For each province the increase in the number of females was greater than that for males. Table B following shows the number of females per thousand males in the State and in each Province for each Census since 1926.

Table B:- Females per 1,000 Males in each Province, 1926 - 1986.

1981	991	1,024	970	939	934
1986	1,001	1,028	983	960	948

Prior to 1986 there had been an excess of males in the population at every Census since 1926, the 1936 figure of 952 females per 1,000 males being the lowest ever recorded. The male excess declined subsequently and for the five Censuses between 1961 and 1981 the ratio was fairly stable at around 990. The 1986 Census is the first to show an excess (albeit marginal) of females in the population since the foundation of the State.

In 1961 the female to male ratio for Leinster was 15 per cent higher than that for Connacht. Since then the provincial differences have been narrowing so that by 1986 the ratio for Leinster was just over 8 per cent higher than that for Ulster (three counties).

Population of Counties and County Boroughs

Every county and borough experienced an increase in population between 1981 and 1986 with the exception of County Leitrim and the County Boroughs of Dublin, Cork and Limerick. Table C gives population figures for counties and county boroughs for 1981 and 1986 together with the actual and percentage changes for the period 1981-1986.

In Leinster increases exceeding 20 per cent occurred in Dublin-Belgard and Dublin-Fingal. The counties adjacent to Dublin continued to experience substantial population growth between 1981 and 1986, increases of 11.6, 8.9 and 8.1 per cent being recorded for Kildare, Meath and Wicklow respectively. However the population of Dublin County Borough was 42,100 or 7.7 per cent lower in 1986 than in 1981.

In Munster population declines of 7.3 and 2.3 per cent were recorded for the County Boroughs of Limerick and Cork respectively. A population increase was observed for all the other Counties and County Boroughs, the largest percentage increases being 7.3, 5.0 and 4.3 per cent for the Counties of Limerick, Cork and Clare respectively.

In Connacht the population of Galway County Borough increased by almost 3,900 while the rest of Galway showed an increase in excess of 2,600. Small increases were observed for Mayo, Roscommon and Sligo while the population of Leitrim declined by about 600.

In Ulster there were increases of 3.6 and 2.3 per cent for Donegal and Monaghan respectively while the population of Cavan was virtually unchanged.

The map shown on page 13 illustrates the growth in population in different Rural Districts* over the 1981-1986 period. The heavily shaded areas are those where the highest increases in population took place. It can be seen that the largest increases were in the Eastern part of the country and in the areas surrounding the county boroughs, even though the population actually declined in all the County Boroughs except Waterford and Galway.

*Each of the County Boroughs is separately distinguished as are the electoral counties in Dublin. Detailed information on the population growth with County Boroughs and the adjoining Rural Districts is given in the insets shown on the map.

Population of Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas

As at a number of previous Censuses a town size of 1,500 has been taken as the dividing line in applying the classification "aggregate town" and "aggregate rural" as described in the Appendix 2. In 1986 the "aggregate town" population, comprising 128 centres of population, was 1,996,778 or 56.4 per cent of the total. The population of these towns increased by 2.8 per cent between 1981 and 1986. In the same period the "aggregate rural" population also increased by 2.8 per cent, the second consecutive increase in this aggregate following its continuous decline between 1901 and 1971.

The many changes in legally defined boundaries of towns, as well as the practice at recent Censuses of including the suburbs or environs in determining the town size, make it impossible to give comparable population figures extending back over a long period of years for the areas defined at the 1986 Census as "aggregate town" or "aggregate rural". In Table D roughly comparable figures are given covering the period 1901 to 1936 for the area defined as "aggregate town" at the 1936 Census. Comparable figures are shown for the 1936, 1946 and 1951 Censuses by reference to the 1951 aggregate town areas. For each later Census, however, it is possible to give comparable figures only for the immediately preceding enumeration, with the exception of the 1981 Census where comparable figures are available for both 1971 and 1979.

Despite the lack of strictly comparable figures the pattern of increasing town and decreasing rural population over the period 1901 to 1971 is very clear. While the pattern of increasing town population has continued in the ensuing period up to 1986, the pattern of declining rural population was reversed and population increases of 135,000 and 42,000 were actually observed in the 1971-1981 and 1981-1986 periods respectively. In 1901 only 28.3 per cent of the total population was in aggregate town areas whereas, by 1936 this proportion had risen to 35.5 per cent. At the 1986 Census, 56.4 per cent of the population was in aggregate town areas. The rate of increase in the aggregate town area population rose sharply between 1961 and 1981. From 1951 to 1956, the aggregate town area population rose by 13,000 and from 1956 to 1961 by 12,000. From 1961 to 1966, however, the increase amounted to 112,000 persons and this was followed by a similar rise from 1966 to 1971. From 1971 to 1981 the aggregate town population rose by a further 330,000 persons. The rate of increase has slowed considerably since 1981 with the increase of 55,000 being equivalent to an annual average of 11,000 or just one-third of the rate for the previous ten year period.

In Table E the changes in the aggregate town and aggregate rural area populations are shown for counties for the 1981-1986 intercensal period according to the boundaries as defined for the 1986 Census. Increases in excess of 20 per cent in the aggregate town area population were recorded for Limerick, Dublin-Belgard and Dublin-Fingal, while for Kildare and Meath the increases exceeded 10 per cent.

The aggregate rural area population of Dublin-Fingal increased by nearly 12 per cent between 1981 and 1986 while increases in excess of 5 per cent were recorded for Kildare, Meath and Wicklow.

Population by Type of District

In Table F a classification of the population by "type of district" or community size is shown. In addition to towns of 1,500 population or over comprising the aggregate town area population referred to above, the Table covers all smaller towns down to a minimum size cluster of 50 inhabited houses. Suburban expansion in the Dublin area renders the allocation of suburbs as between Dublin County Borough and Dun Laoghaire Borough an arbitrary one and thus these areas and their suburbs have been combined in the Table under the heading "Greater Dublin Area".

In 1986 the population in towns of all sizes was 2,261,857 persons, representing 63.9 per cent of the total population of the country. The Greater Dublin Area contained 26.0 per cent of the total, while the 23 other towns of over 10,000 population contained 18.2 per cent. The 103 towns of between 1,500 and 10,000 inhabitants contained 12.2 per cent of the total population while the remaining 492 smaller towns contained 7.5 per cent. In all town districts the numbers of females exceeded those of males, the female excess being greatest in Galway County Borough and in the Greater Dublin Area. In country districts the number of males exceeded that of females very considerably, there being only 910 females per 1,000 males compared with the figure for all town areas of 1,056 females per 1,000 males.

The population changes in the various types of district between 1981 and 1986 are shown in Table G. The figures shown for 1981 and 1986 relate to identical areas, namely the towns, suburbs and environs defined in 1986. Because some towns fall into different size groups at the two Censuses, somewhat different results are obtained depending on whether the type of district classification is based on the population in 1981 or in 1986. For this reason a third classification, based on average population (taking the simple averages of the populations of each town in the two Census years) is the most useful.

The last two columns of this table compare the percentage changes in the various size-of-town ranges between 1981-1986 and 1971-1981. Although the percentages shown do not relate to identical areas, in view of the changes in size classification of a number of towns, they are sufficient to show how the pattern of town growth has altered between the two periods. In the 1981-1986 period the rate of growth for country districts was almost equivalent to the rate for the State as a whole while in the previous ten year period it was less than half the total rate. The rate of growth for all the county borough areas combined was only 1.4 per cent between 1981 and 1986 or only half the national rate while the growth rate for all other towns combined was much higher at 4.9 per cent.

Population of Towns

In Table 13 on pages 146 to 151 the population of each of the 196 towns with 1,000 or more inhabitants in 1986 is shown with comparable 1981 figures, the towns being arranged in descending order of size. Table H shows the percentage change in population between 1981 and 1986 of the larger towns. These percentages refer to the entire built-up area of the town in each case, the population of the suburbs or environs being added to that within the legally defined boundary. It will be seen from the Table that the largest percentage increases occurred in certain Census towns on the perimeter of Dublin and Cork.

Net Migration Estimates

The Census total is a count of the number of persons actually in the State on Census night. The change in population reflects the effect of vital events (births and deaths) and of all movement of persons into and out of the State between successive Censuses. Since the number of births and deaths is known from the regular vital statistics, a residual measure of net movement of persons can be obtained. In the absence of direct measures of inward and outward migratory flows this residual is used as an estimate of "net migration" i.e. the difference between the inward and outward flows. The residual figure however also reflects, implicitly, the net effect of non-migratory movements (i.e. change between successive Censuses in the level of visitors in the State, or in the level of Irish residents temporarily abroad on Census night) and of any other factors such as marginal variations in Census coverage achieved.

Table I sets out the relevant figures for the five year period between the 1981 and 1986 Censuses with separate estimates derived for males and females.

In that period births (333,000) exceeded deaths (164,000) by 169,000. The actual increase in population in the same period shown by the final Census figure was 97,000. The difference of 72,000 is taken as an estimate of the extent to which outward migration in 1981-1986 was greater than inward migration i.e. as an estimate of "net migration".

Table I:- Estimated Net Migration, 1981 - 1986.

	Persons	Males	Females
Births*	333,457	171,606	161,851
Deaths*	164,336	89,855	74,481
Natural increase (excess of births over deaths)	169,121	81,751	87,370
Increase in population	97,238	40,336	56,902
Estimated net migration (inward less outward)	- 71,883	- 41,415	- 30,468

*The data for births and deaths relate to registrations in the five year period ended 31 March 1986.

The population estimates at Mid-April of the years 1982-1985 are as follows (in thousands):

Estimated Mid-April Population
1982	1983	1984	1985
3,480	3,504	3,529	3,540

Using these population estimates in conjunction with appropriate twelve-monthly data for births and deaths the net outward migration of 72,000 in the 1981-1986 intercensal period can be distributed on an annual basis as follows:

Estimated Net Outward Migration

1981-1982	1982-1983	1983-1984	1984-1985	1985-1986
1,000	14,000	9,000	20,000	28,000

These estimates of annual net migration are unchanged relative to those previously published in November 1987 in the Summary Population Report for Ireland.

Table J following gives figures for changes in the population, natural increase and estimated net migration for each intercensal period since 1926, expressed in the form of annual averages. The average annual natural increase rose fairly consistently up to 1981 with the result that the level for the 1979-1981 period was some 24,000 higher than that for the 1926-1936 period. Due to the sharp decline in the number of births since 1980 the level for 1981-1986 is some 6,300 below that for the 1979-1981 period. Since 1926 there has been an annual average excess of outward migration over inward migration for all intercensal periods with the exception of the 1971-1979 period. For the 1981-1986 period there was an annual average increase in population of some 19,400 comprised of an annual average natural increase of 33,800 partially offset by an average annual net migratory outflow of 14,400.

The annual averages for population change, natural increase and net migration given in Table J are shown in the form of annual rates per thousand of the average population in Table K, the average population in this context being taken as one half of the sum of the populations at each end of the intercensal period. These latter calculations show clearly the derivation of the net migration rate and indicate that the rate of net outward migration in the first half of the 1980's was close to the average for the 1960's.

Estimated net movement of persons can also be derived for counties and county boroughs in a similar fashion by comparing the figures for change in population with the natural increase for each of the areas concerned. The calculations for the 1981-1986 intercensal period are set out in Table 5 of the detailed tabulations. It should be borne in mind, however, that the county figures for net migration obtained in this way take into account all movement into and out of each county whether to or from abroad, or whether to or from another part of the State. It should also be remembered that the net figures represent the difference between two opposite flows - inwards and outwards.

Derived annual rates of net migration per thousand of the average population for each county are shown in Table L for each intercensal period since 1956.

*County and County Borough.

With the exception of Kildare, Meath, Wicklow and Clare all other areas experienced net outward population flows between 1981 and 1986 due to migratory movements and even for these four counties the rate of net inward migration was considerably reduced by comparison with the two previous intercensal periods. The rate of net outward migration per thousand of the average population was highest for Dublin, Cavan and Carlow.

Population of Planning Regions

Table 9A of the detailed tabulations shows the principal population aggregates for the nine Planning Regions for 1986 while Table 9B shows changes which occurred during the five year 1981-1986 intercensal period.

From Table 9A it can be observed that some 40 to 63 per cent of the population was located in Country Districts (i.e. areas excluding population clusters with at least 50 inhabited houses) in all Regions except the East where the figure was only 12 per cent. In the East Region, which accounted for almost two-fifths of the population of the State, some 76 per cent of the population was in towns of 10,000 persons or more, whereas Donegal had no town of this size. Small urban clusters of less than 1,500 persons but with at least 50 inhabited houses accounted for over 17 per cent of the population in Donegal, 14 per cent in the North West and between 8 and 12 per cent in the remaining Regions except the East where the figure was 3 per cent.

From Table 9B it can be observed that while there was a marginal population decline in the North West the population of all the other Planning Regions increased by between 2.2 and 3.6 per cent. The changes in the aggregate town area population ranged from a slight decline in the North West to an increase of 5 per cent in Donegal. At the overall level the aggregate rural area population increased at the same rate as the aggregate town area population but it can be seen that at the Regional level there were significant differentials. For the East and Mid-West the rate of growth in the aggregate rural area population was 3 percentage points higher than the rate for the aggregate town area population, while this position was reversed in the West Region. The average annual rate of natural increase per thousand of the average population ranged from 4.8 in the North West to 11.7 in the East.

All Regions experienced net outward migration ranging from a low of 1.2 per thousand of the average population for Donegal to 4.8 for the North West.

The composition of the Planning Region is set out in Appendix 2.

Notes

1. Cities and Towns which have Local Government, (i.e. County Boroughs, Boroughs and Municipal Boroughs, Urban Districts and Towns under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854), have legally defined boundaries and particulars of their Areas (with the exception of those which have been affected by boundary changes since 1981) are shown in each case. Other towns have no legally defined boundaries and consequently their areas are not available. Where a Rural District contains one or more Census Towns the area for "Remainder" has not been shown.

ADMINISTRATIVE AND CENSUS AREAS

There are many different territorial divisions of the country of which the most important, from the point of view of the Census of Population, are listed below. It should be particularly noted that the areas concerned are as defined at the date of the 1986 Census of Population and that any subsequent revisions have not been taken into account. A number of changes in legally defined boundaries were made by Government Orders in the period since 1981. Details of these changes are contained in Appendix 3. Comparable figures given in the tables for 1981 relate to the 1986 boundaries.

Townlands

The enumeration of the Census is carried out, in the first instance, by townlands in rural areas and by streets in urban areas. The townland is the smallest territorial division used for administrative purposes. Population figures in respect of townlands, of which there are about 51,000, have not been published since the Census of 1911. However, populations of individual townlands in rural areas are available from the Census records and will be furnished on request on payment for the work of extraction involved. Townlands are not used as administrative areas within the boundaries of legally defined urban areas - County Boroughs, Urban Districts and Towns under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854 - and in most other urban areas without legal boundaries it is not possible to compile townland population figures as building development has completely obliterated the physical features by which townland boundaries were originally defined on Ordnance Survey maps.

District Electoral Divisions (DED's)

The smallest administrative area for which population statistics are published is the District Electoral Division (or, in the County Boroughs, the Ward). In rural areas each District Electoral Division consists of an aggregation of entire townlands. There are 3,440 District Electoral Divisions and Wards in the State and population figures for these are contained in Table 12 of this Volume.

Urban and Rural Districts

District Electoral Divisions are aggregated to give Urban Districts (or Boroughs where appropriate) and (former) Rural Districts which, in turn, build up to Counties. The Rural Districts, which numbered 160, were abolished as administrative areas in 1925 (in the case of Rural Districts in County Dublin, in 1930) but have been retained for Census purposes as convenient units of area, intermediate in size between District Electoral Divisions and Counties. In the case of County Dublin, however, it is not possible to compile Rural District figures because of extensive revisions which have taken place in the boundaries of District Electoral Divisions over the years. Population figures for Urban and Rural Districts are contained in Tables 11 and 12 of this Volume. A map giving County and Rural District boundaries is shown on page 12; a second map illustrating the percentage change in population over the period 1981-1986 in each Rural District is given on page 13; and a third map showing the density of population per square kilometre based on Rural Districts is given on page 14.

Counties and County Boroughs

In the Census reports the country is divided into 29 Counties and 5 County Boroughs. Outside Dublin there are 26 administrative counties, since Tipperary North Riding and Tipperary South Riding each ranks as a separate county for administrative purposes and 4 County Boroughs i.e. Cork, Limerick, Waterford and Galway*. In Dublin*, four areas are identified separately i.e. Dublin County Borough and the three electoral counties of Dublin-Belgard, Dublin-Fingal and Dun Laoghaire-Rathdown.

The boundaries of the County Boroughs are subject to periodic extensions to keep pace with building development and it is not possible, therefore, to show comparable retrospective population figures over an extended period. Counties, on the other hand, have only been affected to a very minor extent by boundary changes and it is possible to compare County populations (including the appropriate County Boroughs) over a long period of time. This is done in Table 6 which shows County population figures for each Census year from 1841 to 1986.

Dáil Constituencies

For the purpose of elections to Dáil Éireann the country is divided into Constituencies which, under Article 16.4 of the Constitution of Ireland, have to be revised at least once every twelve years with due regard to changes in the distribution of the population. The Constituencies were last revised in 1983 and the Schedule to the Electoral (Amendment) Act, 1983, contains details of their composition. Population figures for these areas are contained in Table 15.

County and Borough Electoral Areas

For the purpose of County Council Elections each County is divided into Electoral Areas which are constituted on the basis of Orders made under the Local Government Act, 1941. These areas are, in general, formed by aggregating District Electoral Divisions; in a number of cases however District Electoral Divisions are divided between County Electoral Areas to facilitate electors. In the case of the County Boroughs the Corporation Elections are based on Borough Electoral Areas. Population figures for County and Borough Electoral Areas are contained in Table 16. Details of changes which have been made in the various Electoral Areas between 1981 and 1986 are given in Appendix 3.

Civil Parishes

Originally an Ecclesiastical Division and later used for civil purposes, the Civil Parish has for many years been obsolete as an administrative unit of area and statistics relating to Civil Parishes for the country as a whole have not been published since the 1911 Census. Population figures for Civil Parishes will be provided on payment of a fee.

*The Local Government (Reorganisation) Act, 1985 subdivided Dublin County into 3 new electoral counties: Dublin - Belgard; Dublin - Fingal and Dun Laoghaire - Rathdown; and also gave County Borough status to Galway.

Towns

For Census purposes towns fall into two types, namely those with and those without legally defined boundaries. The first type comprises:

- (1) the five County Boroughs and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire;
- (2) the five Municipal Boroughs;
- (3) the forty-nine Urban Districts; and
- (4) the thirty-one Towns under the Towns Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1854.

The second category comprises the "Census Towns", the boundaries of which are determined, for Census purposes only, by the Central Statistics Office and which number 529 in 1986.

(i) Towns with Legally Defined Boundaries

In the case of towns with legally defined boundaries it is necessary, for administrative purposes, to compile population figures for the areas within these boundaries. However, many of these towns have extended beyond their legally defined boundaries. As a result of this, large numbers of persons belonging to the communities of which these towns are the nuclei are excluded from their populations if the coverage is confined strictly to legally defined boundaries. This problem tends to become more pronounced from one Census to the next as urban areas extend further into the surrounding countryside. Revisions of the legally defined boundaries tend to lag behind these developments as they are dependent on other factors besides the necessity of defining urban areas for Census of Population purposes.

Much of the Census analysis is concerned with the overall size of population clusters and not simply with areas within legally defined boundaries. Consequently, where urban areas have extended beyond the legally defined town boundary, the Central Statistics Office must draw up new limits for defining the suburban area or environs of the town for Census purposes. In defining suburban areas and environs, a fixed set of rules is followed to ensure that, as far as possible, the same standards apply in all cases.

Suburban areas for Dublin County Borough, Cork County Borough and the Borough of Dun Laoghaire were defined for the first time at the 1951 Census. For the 1956 Census all towns with legally defined boundaries were examined in co-operation with the Local Authorities concerned and where necessary, suburban areas or environs were defined for them for Census purposes. The suburban boundaries were reviewed for each subsequent Census. A very comprehensive review was carried out for the 1986 Census.

(ii) Census Towns

In the case of towns without legally defined boundaries, a complete review was carried out of the boundaries to be used for the purposes of the 1986 Census using uniform standards. As in 1981 and 1971 a Census Town was defined as a cluster of fifty or more occupied houses, not having a legally defined boundary.

For the Censuses of 1926 to 1951 a Census Town was defined simply as a cluster of twenty or more houses and the precise delimitation of the town was left to the discretion of the individual enumerator concerned. As part of the general review of towns for the 1956 Census, the boundaries for the Census towns were drawn up in consultation with the various Local Authorities applying uniform principles in all areas of the country. The definition of a Census Town was changed at the 1956 Census, from twenty houses to twenty occupied houses; this definition was also applied at the 1961 and 1966 Censuses.

Population figures for towns are contained in Tables 10, 13, 14 and 19. Table 10 contains the total population of all towns and of their suburbs or environs where applicable, arranged in order of size within Counties. An alphabetical list of all towns in the country, with their populations, is given in Table 19. In Tables 13 and 14 towns of 1,000 population and over are arranged in size groups depending on total population. By "total population" in this context is meant the population of the towns, inclusive of suburbs or environs, if any.

The areas taken as comprising the Greater Dublin Area as well as the suburban areas of Cork, Limerick and Waterford County Boroughs are described in Appendix 4. Galway County Borough had no suburbs at the time of the 1986 Census.

Dublin Area

The Local Government (Reorganisation) Act, 1985 altered the boundary of Dublin County Borough and subdivided Dublin County into three new electoral counties: Dublin-Belgard; Dublin-Fingal and Dun Laoghaire-Rathdown. Furthermore the boundaries of the DED's and Wards in Dublin City and County were extensively revised. Details of the population in each of these areas are shown in this Volume.

The description "Greater Dublin Area" was introduced for the 1981 Census to denote Dublin County Borough, Dun Laoghaire Borough and their suburbs, including six population centres which had previously been separately identified as towns. This expression is retained in the present volume. Various tables throughout this Volume contain information on the population of Dublin County Borough, Dun Laoghaire Borough and individual towns separately identified from Greater Dublin as well as for the Aggregate Urban and Aggregate Rural Areas (see below) of Dublin County and County Borough. Of course, population figures continue to be available (in Table 10) for the parts of those individual District Electoral Divisions within Greater Dublin.

Suburbs of Cork County Borough

Because of continued suburban expansion around Cork County Borough six of the centres of population which were separately identified as Census Towns at the 1981 Census, have been subsumed into the suburbs of Cork County Borough, namely, Glanmire-Riverstown, Ballincollig-Carrigrohane, Curraheen, Kerry-Pike, Glounthaune, Ballytrasna-St. Lappans. Population figures continue to be available (in Table 10) for the parts of those individual DED's within the suburbs of Cork County Borough.

Aggregate Town and Aggregate Rural Areas

In continuation of the definition used in reports of earlier Censuses the population in the Aggregate Town Area, as shown in Tables 8, 9A, 9B, 13 and 14 of this Volume and in the remaining Volumes of the Census, is defined as those persons living in population clusters of 1,500 or more inhabitants. If a town with a legally defined boundary has a suburban area or environs outside this boundary and if the total population made up of the population inside the legally defined boundary plus that in the suburbs or environs amounts to 1,500 persons or over, this town (including its suburbs or environs) is classified as belonging to the Aggregate Town Area. Similarly a Census Town with 1,500 inhabitants or over is classified as belonging to the Aggregate Town Area. The population residing in all areas outside clusters of 1,500 or more inhabitants is classified as belonging to the Aggregate Rural Area. It should be particularly noted that the term "Aggregate Rural Area" is not connected with that of Rural District as described earlier. Whereas the Aggregate Rural Area is a statistical concept, the Rural District is a (former) administrative unit of area. From Table 14 it may be seen the composition of the entire Aggregate Town Area population of 1,996,778 persons in 1986. Of this figure 1,288,435 resided within legally defined boundaries of towns while 708,343 resided in the suburbs or environs of these towns or in Census Towns, without legally defined boundaries. It may be seen also from Table 14 that there were 7 towns with legally defined boundaries which were not large enough, even with the population of their environs, to be included in the Aggregate Town Area and that the total population in towns of all sizes, down to the lower limit of fifty occupied houses was 2,261,857 persons. In Table 11, the population in towns of all sizes in each Rural District is shown.

Gaeltacht Areas

The Gaeltacht Areas Orders, 1956, 1967, 1974 and 1982 defined the Gaeltacht as comprising 5 Wards and 150 District Electoral Divisions or parts of Wards and District Electoral Divisions in the counties of Cork, Donegal, Galway, Kerry, Mayo, Meath and Waterford. The population of these Wards and District Electoral Divisions or parts of Wards and District Electoral Divisions in 1981 and 1986 is given in Table 17.

Islands Off The Coast

The population in 1981 and 1986 of inhabited islands off the coast is shown in Table 18. In some cases the areas of land concerned may not, strictly speaking, be considered as islands since they are connected to the mainland by a causeway or bridge, or may be reached by land at low tide.
