General Details

Introduction

A Census of Population was taken on the night of Sunday, 21 April 1991, in accordance with the Statistics (Census of Population) Order 1991 (S I No 62 of 1991)¹. A copy of the census questionnaire including the explanatory notes which accompanied it is reproduced in Appendix 1, Volume 1 of the detailed census report

This eighth volume of the detailed report is in two parts. Part I contains detailed classifications of the population by usual residence at census date and one year prior to census date while Part II contains tabulations according to birthplace.

With the exception of Table 1 the tables in Part I of this volume relate to the usually resident population in each area as analyses involving migration are obviously more meaningful when presented in this way. The tables in Part II (with the exception of Table 32) relate to the enumerated or de facto population as is the case in all the other census volumes for 1991. The territorial divisions of the country distinguished in this report are defined in Appendices 3-8 of Volume 1.

Subsequent census volumes will analyse the population by such characteristics as housing and education.

Coverage

The census figures relate to the de facto population i.e. the population recorded for each area represents the total of all persons present within its boundaries on the night of Sunday, 21 April 1991, together with all persons who arrived in that area on the morning of Monday, 22 April 1991, not having been enumerated elsewhere. Persons on board ships in port are included with the population of adjacent areas. The figures, therefore, include visitors present on census night as well as those in residence, while usual residents temporarily absent from the area are excluded.

The date of the census was chosen to coincide with a period when passenger movements were at a minimum and, consequently, the figures closely approximate to those for the normally resident population. Members of the Defence Forces who on census night were serving abroad with the United Nations were excluded from the enumeration.

Conduct of the Census

The census enumeration was carried out by a specially recruited temporary field force consisting of 334 full-time supervisors and some 3,200 part-time enumerators. The census questionnaires were distributed during the three weeks immediately preceding the census night and the collection of the completed questionnaires commenced the following day. The enumerators examined the questionnaires at the time of collection to ensure that they were correctly completed and, where necessary, they assisted householders in their completion.

Production of Results

Each enumerator first prepared and returned to the Central Statistics Office a summary of the population in his/her enumeration area. These summaries formed the basis for the preliminary 1991 population results issued in three census publications within months of the census date². The completed questionnaires for the individual households were subsequently transmitted to the Central Statistics Office for processing.

The population summaries, dwelling listings and enumeration maps for individual enumeration areas were checked for consistency in county order and used to determine the boundaries of census towns and suburbs/environs of towns with legal boundaries. The first stage clerical scrutiny and computer processing of the entries for date of birth, marital status and relationship to head of household (questions 1-6) on the census questionnaire proceeded concurrently in the same county order. These two operations combined allowed the publication of the first set of final census results in a series of Local Population Reports which were issued on a county-by-county basis immediately results became available (see Appendix 1). A summary report for the State was issued in April 1993.

The derived first phase computer file formed the basis for three volumes of the detailed census report covering Areas, Ages and Marital Status and Household Composition and Family Units. The computer processing of the remaining information on the census questionnaires enabled the publication of a second series of Local Population Reports covering place of birth, religion, Irish speakers, usual residence, car usage and household characteristics.

A complete list of the reports on the 1991 Census published to date is given in Appendix 1.

Small Area Population Statistics (SAPS)

Small area population statistics (SAPS) for Urban Districts, Rural Districts, Towns, District Electoral Divisions, etc. from the 1991 Census are available on a fee basis.

The SAPS contain detailed classifications of:

- the population by age, sex and marital status;
- households by type, size and by age, sex and marital status of the head of the households;
- family units by size and age of youngest child;
- the population aged 15 years and over by principal economic status, age and sex;
- persons at work by sex, employment status and broad industrial sector;
- persons at work and unemployed by sex and occupational group;
- the entire population by socio-economic group and social class

Detailed classifications by means of travel and distance travelled to work, education, ability to speak Irish, religion and housing characteristics, etc. are also provided.

Usual Residence and Migration

The figures for usual residents in a particular area include persons enumerated in that area who stated that their usual residence was at the place where they were enumerated, together with other persons usually resident in that area who were enumerated elsewhere in the State. Persons whose usual residence was elsewhere in the State (i.e. visitors to the area), are not included in the area of enumeration but are included in the area of their usual residence. Usual residents of an area who were not in the State on census night were not enumerated at all in the census and, therefore, are not included in the figures. Visitors to the State are also excluded.

Thus the analyses given in this report involving "Usual residence one year ago" essentially relate to persons enumerated in the census who changed their usual residence during the twelve month period prior to census date.

The census questions relating to usual residence were as follows:

USUAL RESIDENCE
NOW	ONE YEAR AGO
If the person usually lives at this address, write "Here". If not, write the usual address in full	If the person's usual address one year ago was the same as that given at Q 10, write "Same" If not, write in full the usual address at that time For children now under one year old, write "Under 1"

The following more specific instructions as to how the questions should be answered were given in the explanatory notes attached to the census questionnaire:

- (i) If an address in any part of Ireland (including Northern Ireland) is being given, make sure that the county of residence is stated. In addition, if the address is in a town, the name of the town should be given and if it is in a rural area, the townland name should be given. In every case, the full address should be given.
- (ii) If the address is outside Ireland, state the country of usual residence
- (iii) For school children who are away from home during term-time, the home address and not the term-time address should be regarded as the usual residence.
- (iv) For students at University, etc., who are away from home during term-time, the term-time address should be regarded as the usual residence
- (v) For persons, temporarily in hospitals and other institutions, give the home address
- (vi) For persons with no settled address, write "None".

A further two questions were asked in relation to usually resident persons who lived abroad for one year or more. These are as follows.

If the person lived outside Ireland (Republic) for a period of one year or more please indicate
(a) The year of taking up residence in Ireland (Republic)	(b) Country of last previous residence

The following instructions relating to the questions were given in the explanatory notes attached to the census questionnaire:

- (i) These questions should be answered for all persons who are now usually resident in Ireland (Republic) and who previously lived elsewhere for a continuous period of 12 months or more; or who were brought to live here before their first birthday.
- (ii) At question 13 please distinguish Northern Ireland separately.

Birthplace.

The census question relating to birthplace was as follows:

PLACE OF BIRTH If born in Ireland state the county If born elsewhere state the country

The following instructions as to how the question should be answered were given in the explanatory notes attached to the census questionnaire:

- (i) Give the usual residence of mother at time of birth, not the location of hospital or nursing home where born.
- (ii) If born in any part of Ireland (including Northern Ireland) give the name of the county of birth.
- (iii) If born outside Ireland, whether now resident in or visiting Ireland, state the country of birth.

In the case of persons born in Ireland no attempt was made to distinguish those born in the County Boroughs from those born in the adjoining Counties. Such a distinction would, in any case, have been meaningless in view of the various extensions of County Borough boundaries which, in many cases, may have meant that a person's birthplace was outside a County Borough boundary when he was born, but inside it at the date of the census.

It should be noted that the figures for foreign-born persons shown in the section on birthplace (Part II) (with the exception of Table 32) include visitors to the country as well as persons who are usually resident. Table 32 analyses the usual residents of the State by place of birth.

Classification by Occupation

All persons aged 15 years and over who were at work, unemployed (other than first job seekers) or retired were classified in the census to their usual (or previous) principal occupation.

A person's occupational classification is determined by the kind of work performed in earning a living, irrespective of the place in which, or the purpose for which, it is performed. The nature of the industry, business or service in which the person is working has no bearing upon the classification of the occupation. For example, the occupation "Clerk" covers clerks employed in manufacturing industries, commerce, banking, insurance, public administration, professions and other services, etc.

The intermediate level of occupational groups used in the 1991 Census classification is given in Appendix 2 while the broad level of occupational groups is shown in Appendix 3.

Classification by Socio-Economic Group

The entire population was classified to one of eleven socio-economic groups plus a residual "Unknown" group if sufficient details were not provided. The occupations assigned to each of the eleven groups are generally similar as regards the level of skill or educational attainment required. The socio-economic group of persons aged 15 years and over who were at work was determined by their occupation or in some cases by a combination of occupation and employment status. Unemployed or retired persons were classified by socio-economic group according to their former occupation.

Persons engaged in home duties or at school/college, who were members of a family unit, were classified to the socio-economic group of the person in the family on whom they were deemed to be dependent. Thus, if the head of a family was at work, unemployed or retired, dependent persons were assigned to his/her socio-economic group. If the head was neither at work, unemployed nor retired (e.g. never worked, permanently disabled, etc.) or if his/her occupation was not known, they were assigned to the socio-economic group of the principal earner in the family - if there was no such earner, they were assigned to the "Unknown" socio-economic group. Other persons engaged in home duties or at school/college who were not members of a family unit, such as persons living alone or relatives of a head of household who were not members of the family unit (e.g. widowed grandparents, etc.), were assigned to the "Unknown" group.

The socio-economic groups used in the census, which are identical to those used in the 1986 Census, are as follows.

- | | |
|---|---|
| 0 | Farmers, farmers' relatives and farm managers |
| 1 | Other agricultural occupations and fishermen |
| 2 | Higher professional |
| 3 | Lower professional |
| 4 | Self-employed (with employees) and managers |
| 5 | Salaried employees |
| 6 | Intermediate non-manual workers |
| 7 | Other non-manual workers |
| 8 | Skilled manual workers |
| 9 | Semi-skilled manual workers |
| X | Unskilled manual workers |
| Y | Unknown |

A detailed list of the constituent occupations in each socio-economic group is given in Appendix 4.

Classification by Social Class

The entire population was also classified by social class. The social class scale used was first introduced in the 1986 Census. The scale combines the detailed occupation codes into six broad groups (with a seventh residual group, "Unknown") in such a way as to group together, as far as possible, people of similar social class. The entire population was classified by social class following the same procedures as are outlined in the previous section for the allocation of socio-economic group.

The social class groups used in the census, which are identical to those used in the 1986 Census, are as follows:

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 | Higher professional, higher managerial, proprietors employing others and farmers farming 200 or more acres |
| 2 | Lower professional, lower managerial, proprietors without employees and farmers farming 100-199 acres |
| 3 | Other non-manual workers and farmers farming 50-99 acres |
| 4 | Skilled manual workers and farmers farming 30-49 acres |
| 5 | Semi-skilled manual workers and farmers farming less than 30 acres |
| 6 | Unskilled manual workers |
| 7 | Unknown |

A detailed list of the constituent occupations of each social class group is given in Appendix 5.

Classification by Industry

The industry in which a person is engaged is determined (whatever the occupation) by the main economic activity carried out in the local unit at which s/he works. If, however, the local unit provides an ancillary service to another unit (e.g. administration, storage, etc.) in the business then the persons in the ancillary unit are classified to the industry of the unit it services. Thus, while the occupational classification is concerned only with the particular work performed by an individual regardless of the activity carried on at the local unit, the industrial classification is concerned only with the ultimate purpose of the unit or end product regardless of the precise nature of the work performed by each individual. A manufacturing or commercial unit may employ persons with many different occupations for the purpose of making a particular product or for giving a particular service. Conversely, there are cases in which particular occupations are largely confined to a single industry. For example, the majority of persons with agricultural occupations are in the agriculture industry and most miners are in the mining industry.

The term industry as used for Census of Population purposes is not confined to manufacturing industry. It is synonymous with the term "Sector of economic activity". The basis of the industrial classification is, in the case of employees, the business or profession of their employer and in the case of self-employed persons the nature of their own business or profession.

The broad level of industrial groups used in the 1991 Census classification is given in Appendix 6.

Labour Force

The Labour Force comprises persons aged 15 years and over whose principal economic status is at work, looking for first regular job or unemployed having lost or given up previous job.

The Labour Force and its constituent figures shown in this volume are directly based on the census. Differences exist between the figures derived from the census and the official mid-April Labour Force estimates based on the 1991 Labour Force Survey.

Commentary

Usual Residence and Migration

The total population enumerated in the 1991 Census of Population was 3,525,719. Of this total 3,502,404 persons were usually resident in the State and 23,315 (0.7 per cent) were usually resident in other countries. As indicated on page 9, usual residents of the State who were outside the country on census night were not enumerated and thus their total number is not known. However, in the 1991 United Kingdom census, conducted on the same day as the census in Ireland (Republic), the number of persons whose usual residence at census time was given as Ireland (Republic) was of the order of 0.3 per cent of the population of Ireland (Republic).

Of the 3,502,404 persons usually resident in the State, a total of 94,716 (2.7 per cent) were not enumerated at their usual residence. Of these, 68,197 (72.0 per cent) were enumerated in other private households while the remaining 26,519 were enumerated in non-private households (e.g. hospitals, hotels, institutions).

Table A analyses this sub-population of Irish residents who were not enumerated at their usual residence by age group, sex and marital status.

Table A Persons, usually resident in the State but not enumerated at their usual residence, classified by age group, sex and marital status

It can be seen that nearly half of all persons not enumerated at their usual residence were 15-29 years of age, of whom just over 92 per cent were single. Females accounted for 52.8 per cent of persons not enumerated at their usual residence.

In order to examine migratory movements, i.e. the flow of persons who changed their usual residence during the year prior to census date, the total usually resident population aged one year and over is examined (children under that age could not have had an address one year previously). Of the 3,449,584 persons aged one year and over, 3,253,400 (94.3 per cent) had not changed their address within the previous twelve months, 94,760 (2.7 per cent) had moved within the same county, 64,078 (1.9 per cent) had moved from one county to another and 37,346 (1.1 per cent) had come from outside the State. Of this latter number 21,796 (58.4 per cent) were born in Ireland (Republic).

Counties

Table B analyses changes of residence during the twelve months preceding census day of persons usually resident in each county. The number of persons who one year previously were living at a different address, is shown together with the percentage that these people form of the total population now usually resident in the county. Included in the total of those who one year previously were living at a different address are persons who moved within the same county in the last twelve months as well as those who moved into the county from another county or from another country. It can be seen that Dublin, with 7.3 per cent, had the highest percentage of persons who had changed address in the last twelve months followed by Galway at 7.1 per cent. Kildare and Wicklow, two of the dormitory counties bordering on Dublin, also figured prominently with percentages of 6.6 and 6.1 respectively.

Table C provides a further analysis of changes of address within the twelve months preceding census day in the case of the five counties in which the greatest relative movements took place

*Including County Borough

More than 48 per cent of all persons in the State who changed usual residence in the previous twelve months moved within the same county. Of the counties shown in Table C, these percentages were highest in the case of Wicklow (49.1 per cent) and Kildare (47.3 per cent). Slightly less than a third of persons who changed their usual residence in the twelve months before census day moved between counties. This was most prevalent in Limerick (40.8 per cent). Nearly one fifth of all persons who changed usual residence in the past twelve months came to reside in Ireland from abroad. There was some variation in this proportion among the counties listed in Table C, with Kildare recording the lowest at 15.3 per cent and Galway recording the highest at 18.9 per cent. The percentage of persons who changed residence in the previous twelve months by coming to live here from outside the State and who were born in Ireland was 11.1 per cent. This latter percentage varied from 9.8 per cent for Kildare to 10.9 per cent for both Dublin and Galway among the counties listed in Table C.

Table D shows for each county and county borough the gross population gains and losses due to movements in usual residence between counties and county boroughs. The net population effect is also shown in the final column.

In Leinster a net population gain was experienced because of these internal migratory movements in Dublin (excluding Dublin-Belgard) and also in Kildare, Wicklow and Meath, counties which serve as dormitory areas for Dublin. An increase was also recorded in Carlow. A net loss of just under 600 was experienced by Wexford.

In Munster internal migratory movements resulted in net population gains in only Waterford and Limerick County Boroughs. With the exception of Donegal and Galway County Borough all the counties of Connacht and Ulster (part of) experienced population losses due to internal migration, with Galway County having the highest loss at 934.

*Ten persons or less

In the case of males the overall percentage who changed residence in the twelve months to census date was 5 4 per cent. This overall percentage was composed of much higher percentages in the younger age groups and lower percentages in the older age groups. The 20-24 and 25-34 year age groups had the highest percentages of males who had changed residence within the State in the relevant twelve month period at 11 0 per cent and 9 1 per cent respectively. Within these age groups ever-married males accounted for the largest percentages of persons who changed residence, probably due in large part to changes of residence on marriage.

In the older age groups the percentage of males who changed residence was very low with 2.1 per cent in both the 45-64 and 65 years and over age groups.

In the case of males who came to live here from outside the State in the twelve months before census date, the highest percentages of such persons were in the 20-24 and 25-34 year age groups at 2.9 per cent and 2.7 per cent respectively.

*Ten persons or less

The pattern of movement for females was similar to that for males. The overall percentage of those who changed address within the twelve months before the census (6.0 per cent) was again accounted for by high proportions in the younger age groups and low proportions in the older age groups, the former being more pronounced than for the corresponding male age groups.

The 20-24 year age group contained the highest percentage of females (20.0 per cent) who had changed residence in the twelve months before the census. While ever-married females registered the highest percentage in this age group, a significant percentage of single females (18.5 per cent) also moved address in the twelve months before the census. This latter figure was greater than the corresponding figure for single males in this age group.

Males and females in the 25-34 year age group exhibited the same level of overall mobility i.e. 11.9 per cent. Single females were the most mobile in this age group with 15.4 per cent changing their usual residence, whereas ever-married males were the most mobile amongst the males with 12.0 per cent recording a change.

The 20-24 and 25-34 year age groups also contained the highest percentages of males and females who had come to live here from another country in the previous twelve months.

Table G analyses the age and marital status structure of persons who came to live here from outside the State during the twelve months prior to the 1991 Census date.

Of the total of 37,346 usually resident persons whose usual residence one year before the census was outside the State, 18,798 were males and 18,548 were females. The 25-34 year age group contained 12,706 or 34.0 per cent of these persons. There were 6,084 persons under 15 years who came to reside here from another country in the year prior to census date. Most of these are likely to be the children of the 12,693 migrant ever-married persons who came to reside here. More than three quarters of the latter were aged under 45 years.

More than one in seven "Professional and technical workers" changed residence in the twelve months before the census. "Clerical workers" had the next highest percentage of persons who changed residence (11.1 per cent) followed by "Service workers" (9.6 per cent) and "Others" (8.7 per cent). At the other end of the scale "Agricultural and forestry workers and fishermen" had the lowest percentage (1.9 per cent). "Transport and communication workers" also had a low percentage (4.9 per cent). The relevant percentage for all occupational groups was 5.7 per cent.

"Professional and technical workers" had the highest percentage of persons who came to live here from outside the State (3.0 per cent). "Service workers" and "Others" had the next highest percentage of such persons (1.9 per cent) followed by "Clerical workers" (1.8 per cent). In general, the higher professional and skilled workers showed greater mobility than the less skilled and agricultural workers.

Persons who lived abroad for one year or more

Tables 21 to 26 provide analyses of usually resident persons who lived abroad for one year or more distinguishing the following:

- county of usual residence;
- country of previous residence;
- year of taking up residence in Ireland (Republic);
- sex and age group;
- birthplace.

Corresponding tables relating to the 1986 Census are given as a separate appendix to this report.

Table I provides a classification of usual residents who lived outside the State for a period of one year or more by country of previous residence and year of taking up residence in the State.

From the table it can be seen that over three quarters of the persons who lived outside the State for one year or more previously resided in the United Kingdom. Over 38 per cent of persons who lived abroad for one year or more took up residence in Ireland (Republic) in the period 1981 to 1991 while a further 32.8 per cent did so in the period 1971 to 1980.

More than one in six of usual residents aged 45 to 54 lived outside the State for one year or more. The younger age groups (i.e. from 0-4 to 15-19) have the smallest proportions of persons who have lived abroad for one year or more.

Birthplaces

The number and percentage distribution of the population by place of birth for 1981, 1986 and 1991 are given in Table K. The proportion of the total population enumerated in their county of birth remained unchanged at 75.6 per cent between 1981 and 1986 and declined slightly to 74.5 per cent in 1991. On the other hand persons enumerated in counties other than their county of birth increased both in number and as a percentage of the total population, rising from 606,000 or 17.6 per cent of the population in 1981 to 641,000 or 18.1 per cent in 1986 to 671,000 or 19.0 per cent in 1991. The number born in Great Britain decreased from 146,000 in 1981 (4.3 per cent of the population) to 141,000 (4.0 per cent of the population) in 1986 and decreased further to 138,000 (3.9 per cent of the population) in 1991. The numbers born in countries outside Great Britain and Northern Ireland remained flat between 1981 and 1986 but rose rapidly between 1986 and 1991. This latter group accounted for 55,000 persons in 1991 compared with 45,000 in 1981.

Table L compares county of enumeration and county of birth in 1986 and 1991. In the first two columns the percentage of persons enumerated in each county who were born in another county is shown. The third and fourth columns show the percentage of persons born in that county who were enumerated in another county. The counties are ranked in increasing order of the 1991 percentages shown in the fourth column, the final column of the table shows the population of each county in 1991.

The figures in Table L give an indication of the overall long-term effect of migration as distinct from the experience of one particular year which was analysed earlier in this commentary. In general a higher proportion of the population of the smaller counties were enumerated outside their county of birth whereas the opposite was the case for the more populated counties, especially Dublin and Cork.

* The coding of usual residence for towns located in County Dublin (excluding the Greater Dublin area) was on the basis of district electoral division only. Because it was not possible to accurately define the following towns in terms of DEDs it has been decided to omit them from this table: Swords, Malahide, Skerries, Portrane, Kinsealy Drinan and Lusk
